MRS. J. F. PARRISH

At Sixty-Nine Is Doing Her Bit

"I just came in to tell you that since taking your great and wonderful remedy, Vitalitas, I now feel that I can jump a rail fence." Thus spoke Mrs. Parrish of 32 Piedmont street, Worcester. Speaking about Vitalitas, Mrs. Parrish said: "Yes, I want to tell the world about this great remedy. I feel it my duty to tell others that they may benefit by my experience. I took it for rheumatism, and it certainly did the work in fine shape."

Continuing, Mrs. Parrish said: "About 8 years ago I was in a train wreck and I got pretty well smashed up, and ever since I have been suffering from rheumatism, forcing me to stay in the house most of the time, and when I could go out I was forced to use a stick to enable me to get along. I tried everything that any one told me to try, but could never notice any results until I started the Vitalitas treatment. Now I haven't a pain of any kind and I go about without the use of a cane, and my strength is fully 100 per cent. greater than it was before the use of Vitalitas." Mr. Dows, the Lowell druggist, says: "This certainly should be convincing proof as to the merits of Vitalitas. We claim that there isn't a remedy on the market that will do what Vitalitas will for rheumatism, indigestion, stomach, kidney and liver ills. Not a patent medicine, no alcohol or habit-forming drugs in Vitalitas. It is a natural product."—Dows' Drug Store, Merrimack Square.—Adv.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming:
Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
Oh, say, does that star spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes:
What is that which the breeze o'er the towering steep
As it fitfully blows half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines in the stream—
'Tis the star spangled banner, oh long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
A home and a country should leave us no more?
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution.
No refuge could save the hireling and slave
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave:
And the star spangled banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their loved homes and the war's desolation;
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n rescued land
Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a Nation!
Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust";
And the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Men From Washington Will Help Settle Strike

Special Field Representatives of the National War Labor Board Arrive in Answer to Mill Treasurers' Telegram Sent to Washington Yesterday Afternoon—Speedy Termination of Cotton Mill Trouble Expected

Messrs. William P. Harvey and I. K. Russell of Washington, D. C., special field representatives for the national war labor board, arrived in Lowell this afternoon for the purpose of taking a hand in the settlement of the textile operatives' strike, which went into effect last Monday unless some agreement between the strikers and mill officials is reached within a short time. The men were sent here by the federal government at the request of the Lowell Mill Treasurers' association, which yesterday sent a telegram to the national war labor board asking that the board take over the strike and all other labor trouble that may occur during the progress of the war.

Messrs. Harvey and Russell were seen shortly after their arrival by a Sun reporter and they stated that while in Boston on their way to Lowell this forenoon they conferred briefly with A. R. Sharp, president of the Hamilton Mfg. Co., and C. E. Baker, chairman of the Lowell Mill Treasurers' association, and they supplied them with a blank to fill out, for according to the rules of the board both sides are requested to submit their side of the case unreservedly, and if they do, they pledge themselves to abide by any award made by the board. The mill officials accepted the blank and said it would be ready some time this afternoon. Messrs. Harvey and Russell then came to Lowell and arranged to meet President John Golden of the United Textile Workers of America. If he is willing to submit the matter to the board the operatives will return to their work at once.

Mr. Harvey stated that the mission of the representatives of the national war labor board is not to interfere in labor troubles until all other means of settlement have been exhausted.

"We have not gone into the matter a tall," said Mr. Harvey, "but this afternoon we will talk with President Golden, for at present the manufacturers are willing to submit the matter to the board and abide by the decision rendered. The agents of the mills have nothing to do with the settlement of the strike, for that matter has been taken out of their hands by the mill treasurers. We will not interfere until every means of a settlement by the state board of arbitration have proven futile, but if the union and mill officials are willing to submit the matter to us we will go ahead. At 2 o'clock this afternoon word was received from Boston to the effect that the mill treasurer had agreed to submit to any decision."

Nothing unusual in the strike conditions developed this morning outside of meeting of different organizations, and that the strikers claim some more gain was made this morning in the number of operatives who left their work. Quiet picketing was again conducted at the mill gates this morning and later it was reported that the number of operatives who reported for work was smaller than yesterday.

The national war labor board is composed of the following: F. C. Hood of the Hook Rubber Co., C. Edwin Althaus, president of the Virginia Bridge & Iron Co., Loyall A. Osborne, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., W. H. Van Dervoort, president of the Ban Darvoort Engineering Co., and P. L. Warden, president of the Lackawanna Bridge Co. for the employers; Frank J. Hayes, president of the United Mine Workers of America; William L. Hutchinson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America; William H. Johnson, president of the International Seamen's union and F. A. Bicket, president of the United Garment Workers of America. There are two chairmen for the board, Hon. William H. Taft and Frank P. Walsh. In the absence of Chairman Taft, who is enjoying a two-months' vacation, Frederick N. Hudson of St. Louis is one of the chairmen.

Executive Committee Met

The executive committee of the Lowell Textile council, which is conducting the strike held a meeting in labor hall, 32 Middle street, this forenoon with President Golden and Secretary-Treasurer Sara V. Conboy of the United Textile Workers of America in attendance. Mrs. Conboy arrived in Lowell this morning for the purpose of addressing a mass meeting of women weavers scheduled to be held at Associated hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon. At the close of the executive committee's meeting President Golden stated that there was nothing to report other than the reports showed that the number of operatives reporting to work is diminishing.

Sinking of Canadian Hospital Ship Called an Unspeakable Outrage

Bonar Law Says "the Wild Beast is at Large"—Maj. Lyon Talks

LONDON, July 3.—A thorough search of the waters in the vicinity of the spot where the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle was sunk by a German submarine has resulted in no further survivors being found. An official statement issued by the admiralty says it may be assumed that only 24 out of the 256 persons on board were saved.

The admiralty statement says: "The area between the spot where the Llandovery Castle was sunk and the southwest Irish coast has been thoroughly searched by two groups of his majesty's ships in addition to the destroyer Lysander. Only a little wreckage and one empty boat were found. It may be assumed that there are no more survivors from the Llandovery Castle."

Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking in the house of commons yesterday, said that one would have thought that nothing new as regards German brutality could have happened, but the sinking of the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle was an unspeakable outrage. Nothing could be gained, he added, by talking about this last example of frightfulness.

"The wild beast is at large," said Mr. Bonar Law. "There is no use arguing or reasoning about it. The only thing to do is to destroy it. That is the duty and it is up to all the allies to set their teeth until that end is achieved."

Major Lyon's Statement
Major T. Lyon of the Canadian Medical corps, who suffered severe treatment when he was taken aboard the German submarine, has been brought to a hospital in London.

"I dread to think what would have happened to an American flying officer had he been in my shoes," said Maj. Lyon yesterday. He then related to the Associated Press his experiences with the Germans.

"The Germans," he said, "seemed obsessed with the idea that American aviators were aboard, and it took us some time to convince them otherwise. Almost the first words they used when approaching our lifeboat were: 'Where is the flying officer?' This was when the German commander ordered us to come alongside quickly and we explained that the slight delay in the darkness was due to an endeavor to rescue a man in the water. Then it was that the German commander threatened us, again asking: 'Where are those Americans?' and then shot over our heads with his revolver, and made more threats.

"Captain Sylvester (master of the hospital ship) went aboard the submarine first, remaining perhaps five or ten minutes. Then they came after me. The second officer of the submarine grabbed me by the hand and I was jerked aboard, a bone in my foot being broken.

"I ascertained afterwards that the Germans had questioned Sylvester as to whether a wireless message had been despatched asking for assistance and about American flying officers. I was taken to the conning tower and kept standing about three minutes while I was interrogated by the German commander regarding my being a medical officer. I saw eight or ten men while aboard. All of them spoke English. Finally they sent me back to the lifeboat, my story having tallied with Sylvester's.

"This seemed to surprise the Germans as they pretended to be sure that aviators were aboard. I have my doubts about this belief being genuine, my idea being that the Germans simply used this as a pretext for the torpedoing of the Llandovery Castle.

"The submarine," continued Major Lyon, "a little later made for us, missing our stern by a few feet. I believe the Germans tried to ram us."

Were Recovered from the Ruins of Munition Plant Wrecked by Explosion

80 Injured, Many Fatally—
Ten Buildings Destroyed—
Damage Over $1,000,000

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 3.—Sixty-two bodies had been recovered shortly before noon today, from the ruins of the buildings of the Somet-Solvay plant, destroyed last night by fire and explosions of T.N.T.

The injured numbered at least 80, most of whom are expected to die.

Property Damage $1,000,000

Fully half of the great munitions plant was wiped out by the fire and explosions which followed. Ten buildings were destroyed and the property damage will exceed $1,000,000.

Shook Entire City

The explosion, which occurred at 9 o'clock, shook the entire city. Within a mile or more of Spitt Rock, scores rushed from their homes to get out of the danger zone. Many pushed wheelbarrows containing children and household goods. A fire preceded the explosion by 45 minutes or more.

Six Policemen Killed

The bodies of six policemen were found in the ruins.

The small homes of workmen about the hillside and in the valley were wrecked. Many women in these houses had narrow escapes. They rushed out in panic, some with children in their arms. The company kitchen, where women were employed, was damaged, but it was said all escaped.

Fire Warned Workmen

According to E. L. Pierce, vice president of the company, the fire started in one of the towers of a T.N.T. plant. The cause has not been ascertained. The fire gave warning so that workmen were able to escape and most of those killed or injured were fighting the fire.

Report Fire Set By Spies Unconfirmed

Three T.N.T. plants, one nitric acid plant, the office, laboratory and a boiler house were destroyed. According to Mr. Pierce, men had the fire under control but lost the water and this permitted the spread of the flames.

There is no confirmation of reports that the fire was started by German spies.

In answer to your query: "What is meant by the words 'second hand articles'?" I beg to say that from the meaning of the statute there apparently exists no ambiguity, and this phrase has no technical or peculiar meaning, but in general refers to articles that have been before sold, or used, once or many times.

While this subject is fresh, I desire to call to your attention, act of 1910, chapter 554, which provides that no person licensed as a junk dealer shall under such license or on the licensed premises, purchase, barter, sell or offer for sale any new, unused or unworked article or material, and, of course, if an applicant for a license to deal in second-hand articles is ostensibly attempting to conduct a junk business under such a license, he is prohibited under the provisions of such act to deal in any new or unused merchandise.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM D. REGAN,
City Solicitor.

PROCLAIM PRES. WILSON CITIZEN OF PARIS

PARIS, July 3.—(Havas Agency)—Andre Gent, syndic of the Paris municipal council, will propose at the next meeting of the councilors, according to the newspapers of the capital, that President Wilson be proclaimed a citizen of Paris.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A.O.H.
The Ladies' Auxiliary, A.O.H., held their regular meeting last evening in the hall of the city hall. Considerable business was transacted. A report was read from the county board meeting in Wallingford. The officers also reported that at a state board meeting in Boston it was voted to give an ambulance to the government. The $500 Liberty bond was received back from Washington and placed in the hands of the treasurer.

Doctors Give Reasons for Spring Fever

Explain Its Real Meaning

"The name Spring Fever," said a well known physician in conversation the other day, "is a misnomer, and is largely a figure of speech used to describe the peculiar lassitude, that so many people complain of at the expiration of our winter months. It is a physiological condition well known to the medical profession, and is not a fever at all, but a general letting down of nature's forces, particularly the nervous centers, due to the deficiency of iron and phosphorus both of which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of bodily vigor.

"Of course," he continued, "the excessive meat eating, the loss of green vegetables and of oxygen, of which there is so little in the average heated house, all play their part. The result is that nature is calling for an increased output of the vital forces during the winter months, and this demand means more phosphorus and iron. For it is these two potent remedies combined, which are nature's armament in her defensive warfare. With the advent of warm weather, the pores act more freely and the heart slows up and that peculiar lassitude which we call Spring Fever is manifested.

"And the remedy, Doctor?" an interested listener asked. "Why my dear sir, the remedy for these tired nerves and blood centers is Phosphated Iron. But there is no reason why we should ever reach this point, if we would, from time to time, take that well known remedy, Phosphated Iron, and so maintain the physiological balance, as shown by our color, our sense of well being, push and activity, all of which are necessary to make life worth while."

And the Doctor was right. Special Notice—To insure Doctors and their patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron, we have put in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to substitute tablets or pills. Insist on capsules. Fred Howard, Lowell Pharmacy and leading druggists everywhere.

MANCHESTER STRIKERS HOLD MASS MEETING

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 3.—The striking textile operatives of the Amoskeag and Swift mills, numbering about 18,000, will hold a mass meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock, in St. Cecilia hall, at which a vote will be taken as to the acceptance of Labor Commissioner John S. B. Davies' proposition for arbitration. The mill agents accepted the proposition after a conference held with the strikers' representatives yesterday morning.

A report is current that federal mediators are on the way to this city. Another conference between the mill agents and strike leaders will be held after the vote of the operatives is taken.

"BETTER THAN WORM TABLETS"

Some people who are troubled with worms, or whose children sometimes suffer that way, try to get rid of the trouble by using worm tablets, worm lozenges or worm candy. They fail to get the quick results that can be obtained with Dr. True's Elixir, the family laxative.

In fact Dr. True's Elixir, a liquid medicine, is positively better than any worm tablets, worm lozenges or worm candy. ## SHIP LAUNCHINGS

107 Vessels of 465,186 Tons

to Take Water at American Yards Tomorrow

June Launchings Total 280-

400 Tons—New United States Record

BOSTON, July 3.—While around the world, except in Germany and its vassal countries, will ring the huzzas of millions of people of many nations in celebration of the Fourth of July, no celebrations, perhaps, will have a more nerve-racking effect upon the Kaiser than those at the various American shipyards, north, east, south and west.

A TENDENCY TO ANEMIA MAY BE INHERITED

A tendency to thin blood, or anemia, may be hereditary. In fact, it often runs in families, and in such cases it should be combated, as soon as a symptom shows, by the use of a reliable blood-making tonic.

Mrs. Elsie Monastesse, 2 Porter street, Haverhill, Mass., and her seventeen-year-old daughter, both used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the treatment of anemia and their experience follows:

"I had suffered with anemia or lack of blood from my girlhood," says Mrs. Monastesse. "I was losing my strength, was run down, and had terrible headaches. I took bitter tonics and other medicines, but they did not seem to help me. I was discouraged, my appetite was poor and what I did eat would not stay on my stomach."

"I had heard of people who were benefited by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. I noticed improvement after I had taken three boxes. My appetite became better and I felt stronger in every way."

"My daughter, Antoinette, became run down about three years ago and seemed to have no ambition. She was colorless and her limbs ached continually. She had no appetite and her face broke out with pimples. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills helped her at once, and she began to eat better. Her color came back, and the pains in her limbs disappeared."

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box. Write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free book on the blood.—Adv.

where 93 ocean-going merchant vessels and 14 destroyers are to take the water on the greatest launching day in the history of the world.

The total tonnage of this portion of the bridge of ships is 465,186, exclusive of the warships.

Thus in one day the total ship production in the United States in June, 280,400 deadweight tons, will be far exceeded and the total production for the year brought to more than 1,549,866 tons.

The June production, which is at the rate of 3,364,800 tons a year, is a new record for the United States and is the greatest output of ocean-going tonnage ever completed in any one month by any nation.

It comes within 15,000 tons of the world's record for shipbuilding made by the British shipyards in May, but which included all classes of vessels.

Of the vessels to be launched tomorrow 41 are of steel and 52 wooden. Five are Maine products, two were built in New Hampshire and one in Connecticut. In eastern yards 12 steel and 12 wooden ships have been turned out. On the Pacific coast, there will be 17 steel and 26 wooden launchings, and in the Gulf yards, 14 wooden and one steel "splashes." Besides these, there are 11 steel ships for the Great Lakes.

The second largest steel ship constructed at eastern yards is the Sagadahoc, a cargo vessel of 800 tons, by the Texas company of Bath, Me. Cumberland shipbuilding company of Portland, Me., expects to launch the Cumberland and Falmouth; the Portland Ship company will christen the Okeas; the Kelly-Spear company of Bath, Me., has the Columbine ready, and L. H. Shattuck, Inc., Portsmouth, N. H., intends to wet the Croston and Cruso. The last six named boats are wooden and 3500 tons each.

At the Pennsylvania Shipbuilding company, the largest craft will slip from the ways. It is the William Penn, a 12,500 steel cargo-carrier. Challenger, an 11,000 ton steel vessel, will hit the water at Alameda, Calif., and Sal Francisco is preparing to observe the launching of the Independence, a 11,800 ton steel ship.

Victorious and Defiance, each 11,800 tons, steel craft.

Beat Year's Record in One Day
The total tonnage under the American flag two years ago was 2,412,381, a large part of which was not of deep sea type. Independence day's launchings will exceed by 74,850 tons the total ship production of the United States for 1901, the previous record year.

The total steel tonnage to be launched is 279,986, the wooden, 185,200.

Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the Emergency Fleet corporation, will attend the triple launching at San Francisco. Early in the year, it was thought that, if the shipyards could be speeded up so that a score of vessels could be launched on the country's natal day, there would be good reason to feel satisfied. Since Schwab took hold with practically unlimited powers, there has been a marked quickening of the whole system.

Among the 14 destroyers to slip into the water will be one from the Fore River Shipbuilding company's docks.

Saturday, July 6, is "Quarter Day" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

PUBLIC FORUM

Former Agent of Department of Labor Talks on "Labor Behind the War"

Minimum Raise in Wages

Best Ever Secured by Row, He Says

"Somehow or other you folks in Lowell must root your labor in your soil and if you do that, you're going to get a lot of good people. That's your job."

There has never been a raise in wages secured by a row that was ever more than a minimum raise."

These were some of the salient, home-driven points that a Lowell audience perhaps could have heard at no more opportune time than last evening when Guy D. Gold, formerly special agent of the department of labor, and one of the best versed labor men in the country, spoke on "Labor Behind the War" in high school hall before a fair-sized and representative audience.

The existence of a textile strike in this city seemed to add more than usual significance to the meeting and while Mr. Gold did not attempt to deal openly with local issues, nevertheless, those who followed him closely could readily see the application of many of his statements to local conditions. He spoke optimistically of labor's part in the war, but did not seek to aggrandise it. He said that labor had not done everything that it might have done to back up the government, but that it was not unique in this respect. None of us, he declared, has done everything that he might have done.

Hugh J. Molloy, chairman of the local forum committee, was the presiding officer and members of the committee were seated on the platform. Following his address, proper, Mr. Gold answered a number of questions propounded by members of the audience.

It was announced that John W. Ross of Buffalo, N. Y., would be the speaker at the next meeting to be held Tuesday evening, July 9, at 8 o'clock. His topic will be: "The Vitalization of Civic Life."

Mr. Gold's Address

Mr. Gold spoke in substance as follows: "From the standpoint of the United States government the labor voice of the United States, whether it is heard in a number of organized voices, or in the particular form of organized voice is the American Federation of Labor. That being the case we must expect, for the period of the war at least, a very extensive activity on the part of organized labor, with vastly increased power, but with tremendous responsibility. For you must remember that three and a half million men and women must speak for 23 million workers in the United States. That great responsibility has sobered the organized labor men considerably."

"Is the American working man behind the war? He is not so far behind that he will never see the war and he is getting closer. If you were to ask if the ministers of the country are behind the war, I should say that some of them are pretty far behind it, but there are others who are so close that they are getting killed."

"The government has asked labor to supply an army adequate for the winning of this war. The great body of the army must be furnished by labor simply because there are no other groups of men who can furnish them. Proportionately, every group has done magnificently, but the great bulk of the men that will have to do the actual killing and being killed, will have to come out of the ranks of labor. This war is going to be won, not by the textile mills in Lowell, but by the flesh and blood over in France. Proportionately, there are more boys to be furnished out of labor, because labor has more boys. It is merely a matter of mathematics. Now, will labor do this, or will it lie down on the job? Looking over the lists today, I am satisfied that labor has willingly furnished her quota, up to today. It is going to be hard to furnish an army of ten million men, which we shall probably have to furnish before we are through, but I believe we have enough evidence that labor will produce that army. And we are making pretty good soldiers out of the material, judging by reports from overseas. I believe that as near as we can see into the future, labor is going to furnish blood for this war, and is going to stand leadership that she would not stand in business."

Labor Has Not Produced
"Secondly, labor is asked to produce the necessary war supplies, food and material to win the war. Will she do it? Up to date she has not. Labor has not produced what she could produce; but I do not see anyone that has done everything that they could have done. We are just getting into our stride. Why has not labor come right up, right away? Is it because she is not patriotic? Is it because she is not behind the war? Is it because she is afraid? I am not sure but it is because she is afraid that if she sets a standard that is so abnormal, we shall not forget it after the war is over."

"Now along comes the war, and they are expected to show their metal. The question is, is it a dangerous thing to do? I say that labor ought to have more confidence in the rest of us. I deem that labor is to be criticized for not having produced her maximum, but I want to justify labor, on the ground that even the United States government has not always been a fair employer on that matter, and that standards of price fixing based upon that kind of proceeding were taken advantage of by producers at the beginning of this war. I do not justify the failure to measure up to all that is in us when the government needs all that is in us, but I do feel that in the light of the fear that is on labor, labor has had some right to be holding up a little, until she has some assurance that she is going to be treated fairly."

Fluidity of Labor
"But there is one thing that labor cannot excuse, can only explain. That is the tremendous fluidity of labor. There has not been a time in the United States since the Civil War when we have been so prosperous that labor was not afraid to get up, and move. Men have been so afraid of not having a job that Billy Sunday's hell did not have such terror for the working man as the loss of a job. They have lived in mining communities on pitiable wages, and they could not get away if they wanted to. I know what I am talking about. Then the war came along, and there seemed to be more jobs than there were men. And last winter, when you were going to cry a great deal harder for it this winter, the miners were leaving the rotten mining towns and going into better towns, where there were Y.M.C.A. centres and Knights of Columbus halls, and such things. The whole working population got on the move. It was a good thing, if only they will settle down now. The government is trying hard, but I think that every community will have to do its part. You folks here in Lowell have got to be a good many of these people. It is worth doing. You are going to get a lot of good folks, when you get them rooted. But now, fluidity of labor ought to cease."

"Then we have asked labor to do all this war work as cheaply as possible. Labor has not done it, but I am not so sure but she had done it as cheaply as she ought to have done it. We have no business in investing in luxuries in art galleries, but the profits of the war, my conviction is that any man who can afford to start an art gallery out of the profit made out of this war is a traitor to the United States. I use art galleries as an illustration of the war. The same thing applies to the working man or to the employer whose principle is that he must have so much excess that he can enjoy things that he never was able to enjoy before. But when that is said, I believe labor has kept the cost down as low as we could expect to keep it down."

A Great Responsibility
"We are asking one other thing of labor. Can we trust labor with this last, most critical of all responsibilities, that we shall come through this war without any loss in our civic and social civilization? Or shall we find ourselves the victims of a spirit of social civilization? The leadership of the community that has usually safeguarded these things, is in the service of the government. It is not creating the local environment. That is what I am troubled about. Yet as I go over the situation with the labor leaders of the country, I believe that the great body of American working people is so ultra-conservative that it will take more than this war to make unsafe, except in certain spots, our social fabric. I believe the laboring man is not seeking to undermine the fundamental institutions of our American democracy. I am even prepared to say that there have been more crimes committed against the I.W.W. than by the I.W.W. Employers create the I.W.W. I am convinced that no great body of men in this country become extremely radical to the point of destruction of institutions, unless somebody has taught them the lessons of that kind of destruction. I am not supporting their economic theories or making any plea for them, but I want to say that the United States has not found a single conviction, that the members of the I.W.W. have been German propagandists. They may be. I do not say whether they are or not. But that is the government's record."

"The American labor is keeping step with the rest of us in this war. Some of it is behind the line, some may be a little bit ahead. But this is the worst thing that can be said about American labor—and about all of us for that matter—that we are at a pretty slow pace. Our allies have a right to expect that we will save them. We shall be pikers if we do not. I expect that when we get into the quikstep, we shall do it."

over. I know the kind of men who, if a fellow in a spasm of week should roll most steady than usual, that rate of wages would not be kept up. I know of mills that have done that thing seven times inside of one year. They have changed the piece price in order that men would earn only about so much. That thing has been so common in the United States that the laboring man has been afraid to do a good day's work."

"Now along comes the war, and they are expected to show their metal. The question is, is it a dangerous thing to do? I say that labor ought to have more confidence in the rest of us. public a letter from Secretary Baker disclosing a record of achievement which the president said "must cause universal satisfaction" and which "will give additional zest to our national consideration of the Fourth of July."

Substantially 30 divisions are now in France ready to meet whatever move the German army may make in preparation. Some of these divisions already have been formed into the first field army under Maj. Gen. Liggett, others are holding trench sections at important points along the battle line and still others have been broken up and brigaded with French and British troops, and so, when the German thrust comes, the Americans will be called upon to play no small part in meeting it.

All Adequately Equipped
Secretary Baker wrote the president that the supplies and equipment in France for the million men who have gone is shown by latest reports to be adequate and added that "the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supplies."

The president's statement, with the letter from Secretary Baker and his reply, follow:

"I have today received the following letter from the secretary of war, which seems to me to contain information which the base publication will be well and come and will give additional zest to our national celebration of the Fourth of July:

(Washington, July 1, 1918.
"War Department.
"My Dear Mr. President:

"More than one million American soldiers have sailed from the ports in this country to participate in the war in France. In reporting this fact to you, I feel that you will be interested in a few data showing the progress of our overseas military effort."

"The first ship carrying military personnel sailed May 8, 1917, having on board 4,000 men, and 4 members of the reserve nurses corps."

"Gen. Pershing and his staff sailed on May 29, 1917. The embarkations in the months from May, 1917, to and including June 1, 1918, are as follows:

"1917—May, 1718; June, 12,261; July, 12,988; August, 18,233; September, 32,106; October, 35,359; November, 23,016; December, 48,840.

"1918—January, 46,776; February, 48,027; March, 38,811; April, 117,212; May, 244,345; June, 276,372.

"Aggregating, 1,019,115.
"The total number of troops returned from abroad, lost at sea and casualties is 816,525. This is a record of the superbly efficient protection which the navy has given our transport system, only 291 have been lost at sea."

"The supplies and equipment in France for all troops sent is, by our latest reports, adequate and the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supply."

"Respectfully yours,
"NEWTON D. BAKER.
"To which I replied:
"The White House.
"Washington, July 2, 1918.
"My Dear Mr. Secretary:

"Your letter of June first contains a very significant piece of news and an equally significant report of the forwarding of troops during the past year to the other side of the water. It is a record which I think should cause universal satisfaction because the heart of the country is unquestionably in this war and the people of the United States rejoice to see their form of patriotism and faith into the great struggle which is destined to redeem the world."

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON.
"Hon. Newton D. Baker,
"Secretary of War."

The accelerated troop movement to France has been designed to meet the emergency created by the German effort to achieve victory before America's aid can be fully exerted. Its full force, how long the present rate of transportation will be maintained depends upon developments in France and the length of time the surplus ship tonnage furnished by Great Britain can be employed for this work."

In this connection, Secretary Baker said last night that the department of transportation as the future records in troop movements, declaring that he did not desire to have "past performance" made the basis of speculation for the future."

Plans to Clothe 4,000,000
As reserves for the million and more men now in France, more than another million are now in training in the United States. It has been officially announced that 3,000,000 American soldiers will be under arms by the end of the month, while information recently furnished to Congress by Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, acting quartermaster general, disclosed that his department is planning to clothe 4,000,000 men on next Jan. 1.

Gen. Crowder recently told the senate military committee that Class 1 registrants would be exhausted by the first of the year, and he added the significant statement that "every one expected heavy calls to be made during the first six months of next year."

In discussing the heavy movement of troops in the last three months Mr. Baker said it was worthy of mention "that the month in which German submarines were operating off our coast was the month in which we made the record number of shipments."

In this connection it was recalled that not a single American transport carrying troops to Europe had been sunk by Germany's sea wolves, the only two destroyed having been attacked when returning home without the protection of American destroyers and other naval craft. Two British vessels carrying American soldiers have been torpedoed and a third was sunk last month when returning to this country without convoy."

Secretary Baker's letter reveals for the first time the number of marines sent to France. They form only about half of a division, but they have been giving a splendid account of themselves since they helped to stem the German thrust for Paris, and reports today from France show that they again battered through the German trenches and then resisted furious counter assaults."

2,500,000 in Six Months
PARIS, July 3.—(Havas Agency) In six months there will be 2,500,000 American troops on the French front, Andre Tardieu, head of the general commission for Franco-American war matters, has declared to the editor of the Petit Journal.

LOWELL BOY SCOUTS' ANNUAL FIELD DAY
The third annual field day of the Lowell Boy Scouts, which was postponed on account of unfavorable weather from June 22, will be held tomorrow, July 4, at Spalding Park. All the scouts of the city will assemble in Dutton street at 12 o'clock noon and will march directly to Spalding Park headed by their own

Million "Over"

public a letter from Secretary Baker disclosing a record of achievement which the president said "must cause universal satisfaction" and which "will give additional zest to our national consideration of the Fourth of July."

Substantially 30 divisions are now in France ready to meet whatever move the German army may make in preparation. Some of these divisions already have been formed into the first field army under Maj. Gen. Liggett, others are holding trench sections at important points along the battle line and still others have been broken up and brigaded with French and British troops, and so, when the German thrust comes, the Americans will be called upon to play no small part in meeting it.

All Adequately Equipped
Secretary Baker wrote the president that the supplies and equipment in France for the million men who have gone is shown by latest reports to be adequate and added that "the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supplies."

The president's statement, with the letter from Secretary Baker and his reply, follow:

"I have today received the following letter from the secretary of war, which seems to me to contain information which the base publication will be well and come and will give additional zest to our national celebration of the Fourth of July:

(Washington, July 1, 1918.
"War Department.
"My Dear Mr. President:

"More than one million American soldiers have sailed from the ports in this country to participate in the war in France. In reporting this fact to you, I feel that you will be interested in a few data showing the progress of our overseas military effort."

"The first ship carrying military personnel sailed May 8, 1917, having on board 4,000 men, and 4 members of the reserve nurses corps."

"Gen. Pershing and his staff sailed on May 29, 1917. The embarkations in the months from May, 1917, to and including June 1, 1918, are as follows:

"1917—May, 1718; June, 12,261; July, 12,988; August, 18,233; September, 32,106; October, 35,359; November, 23,016; December, 48,840.

"1918—January, 46,776; February, 48,027; March, 38,811; April, 117,212; May, 244,345; June, 276,372.

"Aggregating, 1,019,115.
"The total number of troops returned from abroad, lost at sea and casualties is 816,525. This is a record of the superbly efficient protection which the navy has given our transport system, only 291 have been lost at sea."

"The supplies and equipment in France for all troops sent is, by our latest reports, adequate and the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supply."

"Respectfully yours,
"NEWTON D. BAKER.
"To which I replied:
"The White House.
"Washington, July 2, 1918.
"My Dear Mr. Secretary:

"Your letter of June first contains a very significant piece of news and an equally significant report of the forwarding of troops during the past year to the other side of the water. It is a record which I think should cause universal satisfaction because the heart of the country is unquestionably in this war and the people of the United States rejoice to see their form of patriotism and faith into the great struggle which is destined to redeem the world."

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON.
"Hon. Newton D. Baker,
"Secretary of War."

The accelerated troop movement to France has been designed to meet the emergency created by the German effort to achieve victory before America's aid can be fully exerted. Its full force, how long the present rate of transportation will be maintained depends upon developments in France and the length of time the surplus ship tonnage furnished by Great Britain can be employed for this work."

In this connection, Secretary Baker said last night that the department of transportation as the future records in troop movements, declaring that he did not desire to have "past performance" made the basis of speculation for the future."

Plans to Clothe 4,000,000
As reserves for the million and more men now in France, more than another million are now in training in the United States. It has been officially announced that 3,000,000 American soldiers will be under arms by the end of the month, while information recently furnished to Congress by Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, acting quartermaster general, disclosed that his department is planning to clothe 4,000,000 men on next Jan. 1.

Gen. Crowder recently told the senate military committee that Class 1 registrants would be exhausted by the first of the year, and he added the significant statement that "every one expected heavy calls to be made during the first six months of next year."

In discussing the heavy movement of troops in the last three months Mr. Baker said it was worthy of mention "that the month in which German submarines were operating off our coast was the month in which we made the record number of shipments."

In this connection it was recalled that not a single American transport carrying troops to Europe had been sunk by Germany's sea wolves, the only two destroyed having been attacked when returning home without the protection of American destroyers and other naval craft. Two British vessels carrying American soldiers have been torpedoed and a third was sunk last month when returning to this country without convoy."

Secretary Baker's letter reveals for the first time the number of marines sent to France. They form only about half of a division, but they have been giving a splendid account of themselves since they helped to stem the German thrust for Paris, and reports today from France show that they again battered through the German trenches and then resisted furious counter assaults."

2,500,000 in Six Months
PARIS, July 3.—(Havas Agency) In six months there will be 2,500,000 American troops on the French front, Andre Tardieu, head of the general commission for Franco-American war matters, has declared to the editor of the Petit Journal.

LOWELL BOY SCOUTS' ANNUAL FIELD DAY
The third annual field day of the Lowell Boy Scouts, which was postponed on account of unfavorable weather from June 22, will be held tomorrow, July 4, at Spalding Park. All the scouts of the city will assemble in Dutton street at 12 o'clock noon and will march directly to Spalding Park headed by their own bugle and drum corps. They will be reviewed at the park at 1:30 o'clock by Mayor Thompson. At 2 o'clock a first class program of interesting scout activities and professional vaudeville stunts will take place. The field will be in charge of Commissioner L. W. Faulkner while Deputy Commissioner Robert Carlson will be marshal of the day.

At the close of the program, prizes will be awarded to the various successful contestants. The public is cordially invited to witness this interesting program.

Money deposited this week in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank begins to draw interest Saturday, July 6th.

$10,000 IN PRIZES
Competition for Excellence in Canning Vegetables

BOSTON, July 3.—H. D. Hemingway, representing the National War Garden commission, today began a series of conferences in Massachusetts with leaders in food production and conservation, in an effort to promote interest in the competitions arranged by the commission. The competitions are mainly for excellence in canning vegetables, the awards to be made at agricultural fairs throughout the country, payable in state. Mr. Hemingway announced that $10,000 will be available in prizes for the year.

FEEBLE AGED WOMAN
75 Years Old, Weakened by Pneumonia—Vital Restored Strength

Winchester, Va.—"I am a farmer's wife, 75 years of age, and pneumonia left me in a weak, run-down condition, so I could hardly keep about and do my work. A neighbor brought me Vinol and it has built up my strength so fast that I think it is the best medicine I have ever taken."—Mrs. Jennie Chapman.

There is no secret about Vinol. It owes its success to beef and cod liver oil, iron and manganese, peptonates and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body-building and strength-creating tonics.

Liggett's Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores, Lowell Pharmacy, Routhier & Delisle, Props., Falls & Burkinsaw, F. J. Campbell, and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

ANNUAL LAWN PARTY OF NAMES OF LOWELL MEN
SACRED HEART PARISH IN 101ST REGIMENT

Where are you going on the Fourth? This old-time question has been asked throughout the city during the past few days, and the popular reply has been, "To the Sacred Heart parish field day, of course."

'Tis true that all roads will lead to-morrow afternoon to the Sacred Heart parochial grounds, where from noon till midnight there will be an abundance of entertainment, and enjoyment galore for the parishioners, and their hosts of friends, relatives, neighbors, well-wishers and admirers.

The announcement of a baby contest as a feature of this mammoth parish reunion, has been enthusiastically received, and is arousing widespread interest. The contest will follow closely the features of the Better Baby campaign held here recently and the judges selected for the occasion are ladies under whose supervision the recent Better Baby campaign was so successfully conducted. The first baby contest is open to babies under one year old and the second to babies over one and under two years of age. Three prizes will be awarded in each contest. The first prize will be awarded the "largest baby," second prize for the "smallest baby" and the third prize will go to the "best-natured baby." The committee desires it understood that this contest is not confined to babies of the Sacred Heart parish, and so applicants for the honor are invited on all parts of the city. No entries, however, will be received later than 2 o'clock on tomorrow afternoon, as the contest will be decided promptly at 3 p. m.

In addition to the thousand and one attractions to be found along the delightful midway an open air entertainment of more than passing interest will be held in the afternoon. An excellent list of athletic events under the supervision of a capable sporting committee will be an enjoyable feature of the day's program. The various features of entertainment to be presented throughout the afternoon are, however, merely accessory to the real feature of the day.

Prominently at 5 p. m. a chorus of over one hundred trained voices under the direction of John J. Kelly, the well-known musical director, will be heard in patriotic selections, thus opening the grand patriotic program which is really the main feature of the day's celebration.

Hon. John J. Mitchell, United States marshal, will be the speaker of the occasion. Mr. Mitchell is a speaker of remarkable ability and that his address will be a rare treat is undoubtedly.

THIS WOMAN KNOWS
She Proved that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Help Suffering Women

Watertown, N. Y.—"Last fall when I was expecting to become a mother I was in very poor health. I suffered from a female weakness so I did not have strength enough to do my own work and could not stand on my feet for any length of time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound corrected my trouble and I improved in health so that when my baby came the doctor said he never saw a woman get along any better than I did and I know it was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that helped me."—Mrs. ERNEST BEEBE, 124 Wyoming Ave., Watertown, N. Y.

Women who continually overtax their strength until they get into such a weakened condition should profit by Mrs. Beebe's experience and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lord Rhonda Dead

few rallies and the bulletins from his bedside in the past few days had held out little hope for his recovery. Yesterday's announcement recorded that he had lost strength and that his heart showed signs of failing to respond to treatment.

Viscount Rhonda was the man who put England and most of the United Kingdom of Great Britain on rations and won the gratitude even of the people whose food supply he regulated. Before he achieved the task it was generally regarded as all but impossible.

Food was running short in the United Kingdom in June, 1917, when the Baron Rhonda was appointed food controller of Great Britain. The German-

LORD RHONDA

U-boats were sending ships to the bottom of the ocean and Great Britain was supporting a tremendous army in France. The civilians at home were beginning to feel the pinch. Long queues of men, women and children stood for hours at the food stores in scores of British cities and there was a loud grumble from the public. The man who as David A. Thomas had been managing director of the great Cambrian coal combine, apparently undertook his task with many misgivings. "I have a suspicion," he told his Welsh friends, "that Lloyd George conscripted me for this almost impossible job because he knew I had the hide of a rhinoceros."

"If I am going there," he added, "as guardian and trustee of the consumer and particularly the poor consumer." He declared that he was determined to stop profiteering and speculation in food.

"If it is necessary to put the whole country on compulsory rationing I will do it without compunction," he gave warning. Then followed a series of orders and regulations that a year or two before would have roused the Briton to wrath. The new food controller took over control of all the crops for 1917 and within a few months announced the formation of an international food council to purchase in the United States food supplies for Great Britain, France and Italy in co-operation with Herbert Hoover, the American food administrator. The purpose was to eliminate competition and stop speculative advances in the prices of food.

By fixing the prices, he put into effect a policy of controlling profits for food dealers from the producer down to the retailer.

Transportation in America was snowbound for weeks during the winter of 1917 and America failed to deliver to England the food she had promised. Rhonda met the crisis by fixing the amount of food to be served every person in hotels, restaurants and boarding-houses down to the minute fraction. It carried England over the crisis and resulted in his elevation to viscount.

But the new viscount seemed to have fallen a victim to over-devotion to his own theories. He had boasted that he was living on a far smaller ration than he had imposed upon the British public but in April, 1918, he suffered a physical collapse that was attributed to his short ration regime.

The queues had disappeared from the British food stores. Prices were established and while stories of the sufferings of Germany and Austria leaked past the censors, the Briton smiled and boasted of what Rhonda had accomplished for him. There was food enough and each obtained his share; the coal king had won the fight and the applause of his countrymen.

Before undertaking that task, Rhonda had in 1915 organized the British munitions buying in the United States and Canada and put it on a business basis.

Born at Adare, Wales, March 16, 1856, David A. Thomas was the son of a colliery owner. According to his father's business, he became head of the great Cambrian combine, which controlled many mines producing steam coal used by the British navy. He was elected to parliament from Cardiff and twice refused to be made a peer. Long before he began to figure in public life he was widely known in America as the "British Coal King." His favorite recreation was in farming. In 1882 he married Sybil Haig of Penrhon and they had one daughter.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Surely the war news in today's papers should thrill the hearts of all patriotic Americans with pride at the grand achievement of our war department in having landed 1,019,115 men in France without the loss of a single transport, despite the efforts of the German submarines to reach them. The total Americans under arms will be 3,000,000 by August 1. Not the most unresolvable of Secretary Baker's critics can deny that this is an astounding achievement for little over one year's work.

If all this has been accomplished in a single year, what will be the situation in another year or after two years more of equally strenuous work to win the war?

On a par with this is the events to take place tomorrow, when 107 ships are to be launched from American yards.

We are about to show the enemy that we will do in a few years what it took them forty to accomplish, and furthermore, we will show them that the armies sent out after this period of intensive training will wipe out what remains of the Teutonic armies.

We feel that this statement is fully justified by the great superiority shown by our American troops wherever they have come in contact with the enemy, and nowhere more effectively than in taking the town of Vaux and in resisting the furious efforts of the Germans to retrieve the ground lost.

Despite the many sad features inseparable from war, there is here the assurance of victory to come that will ultimately deliver the world from the menace of German militarism and autocracy, and extend the reign of justice and freedom to every people and every land upon the globe.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Suppose we, the people of these United States of America, should issue a new Declaration of Independence, not superseding but based upon the old, we feel it would run thus:

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for the people of a democratic, liberty-loving country to fight unto death for the principles they hold most dear, a decent respect for the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to wage a win-or-die war.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all nations, great and small, are entitled to their place in the sun; that all human beings are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, whether they live in Belgium, Serbia, France or travel upon the high seas in peaceful ships of commerce; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights those governments of the people, for the people and by the people, have banded together in one cause and with one purpose against that government and the slavish subjects of that government which seeks to overthrow liberty throughout the world and to crush democracy beneath the cruel heel of autocracy and might.

For long and many years, this power of military might and inhuman greed threatened the peace of the world and the freedom of all peoples, but still we were patient and hoped that the light of justice and honor might break through the cloak of militarism into the hearts of the German people and that reason might come to the German government. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinced a design to reduce all other nations and peoples under absolute despotism, it became our right, it became our duty, to fight that ruler, that government, that people with all of our resources of men and money, food and bullets. The history of the present Kaiser of Germany is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over all the peoples of the earth. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has committed outrageous crimes against American citizens upon the high seas.

He has wilfully and needlessly murdered American women and children.

He has tortured and slain prisoners of war.

He has violated every known law of war.

He has violated every international law which stood in his course of brutalized warfare.

He has murdered non-combatants, even including little babies.

He has made bonfires and heaps of ruins out of churches and hospitals.

He has sunk hospital ships.

He has made war upon Red Cross workers.

He has fomented plots against the United States while this country was at peace with Germany.

He has hired conspirators to destroy life and property in the United States and in every other country which resisted his power lust.

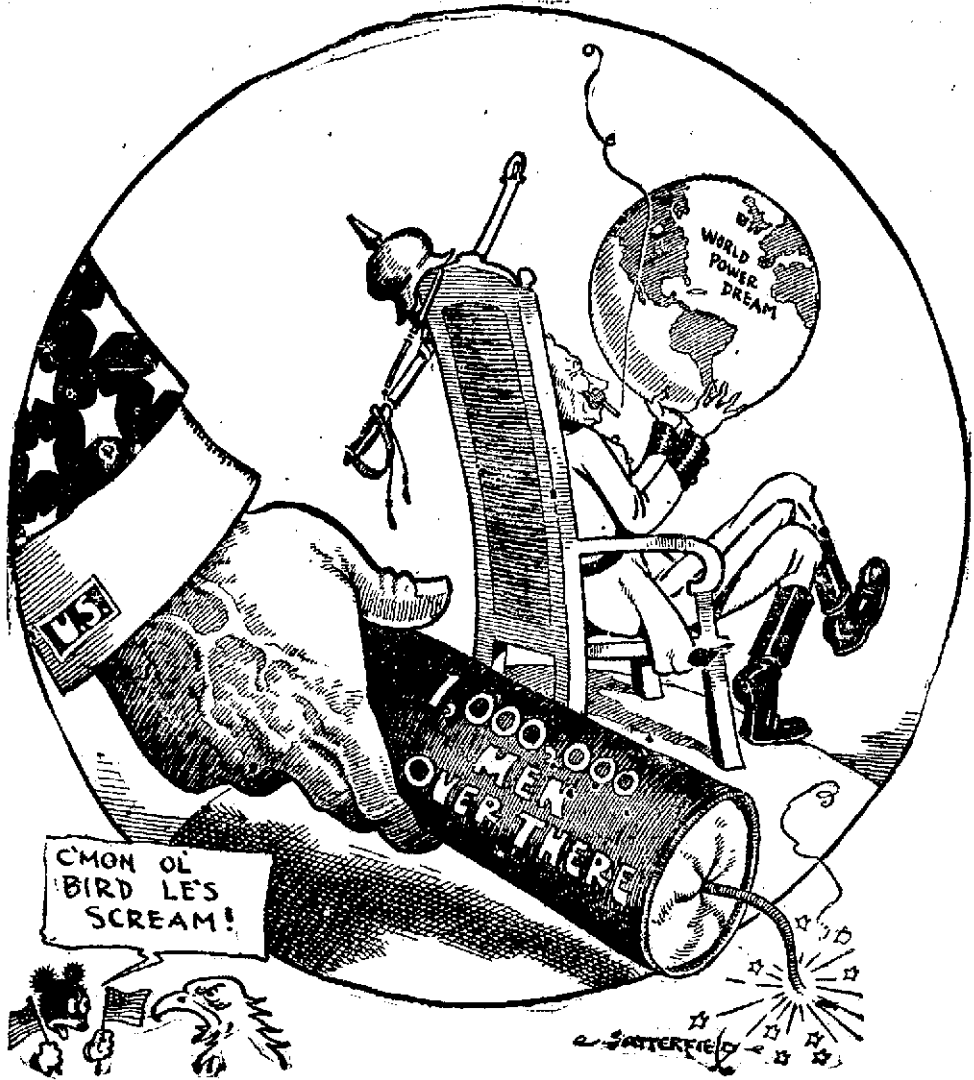

He has committed unforgivable crimes against the female population of conquered territory.

He has torn up treaties and scorned the rights of humanity.

He has plunged the world into this war, and by so doing, has become the arch-murderer of all time and the slayer of more human beings than all other murderers of all the world within the last several hundreds of years.

We, therefore, the people of the United States of America, on this Fourth of July, do solemnly publish and declare, that the United States of America will exert its last ounce of strength, will give its last man, will spend its last dollar, and if need be will fight to the last day of our existence as a free nation, to the end that our foe, the enemy of humanity, justice and liberty, may be defeated; that the final victory may be so complete, so decisive, that never again will German autocracy and militarism threaten the peace of the world nor the liberty of the inhabitants thereof. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, that we will loan of our savings for war savings stamps and Liberty loans, that we will give of our money for war taxes without complaint, that we will support with our dollars and our time Red Cross and all other war charities, that we will produce and conserve food as requested by the food administration, that we will not seek one penny of excess profits during the period of war, that we who are able, will go "over there" to the trenches of our allies, that we will utter no word which will interfere with our country's war aim, and that we will not fail to utter such words as will keep the people's fighting spirit staunch and true and firm.

This declaration, we are sure, would be signed by every one of the 110,000,000 people in this land as a true declaration of the principles and policies for which we stand in this war.

President Wilson in appointing a woman to the office of judge of the juvenile court in the District of Columbia has established a precedent that will be followed in some other cities. It will please the suffragists.

HENRY FORD'S HOSPITAL

Henry Ford is constructing a $3,000,000 hospital at Detroit, Mich., for the rehabilitation of American soldiers wounded in Europe. One would suppose that such a hospital would be of more service if near the coast. The journey from the Atlantic ports to Detroit would surely be a painful ordeal for a soldier suffering from wounds.

BAY STATE RAILWAY TRUSTEE

When Governor McCall selects the trustees to take charge of the affairs of the Bay State Street Railway, he should not forget the claims that the city of Lowell has to a place on that board. It was here in Lowell that the road had its beginning and here the company found its highest official, President Sullivan. We understand that there are two avowed candidates for the position of trustee on the board to be appointed under the recent act of the legislature. Both gentlemen are very acceptable so that should the governor select either of them, his action would doubtless meet public approval.

Factory Notes

Capable drawings by employees of the plant, a number of letters from soldiers "over there" and a few heart-to-heart talks by the editor are the salient features of the June number of "Factory Notes," the U. S. Cartridge Co. publication. Notes of the doings in various departments and a few poems that contain a lot of truth are other enjoyable features of the publication.

In the Days of Real Sport

"War gardening is just as good sport as golf or shooting," declares an enthusiast. U-m, well, it requires as much skill and persistence to bug a patch of potatoes as to bug a dozen quail, and looking for the pepper plants in the weeds would be as good sport as looking for lost golf balls if caddies were employed to help.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Smiling Tolerance

"It's great fun for the young folks," remarked the man with a railroad cap

who was sweeping up around the station, "but it sure does make a mess."

What he was cleaning up was confetti, over-liberally showered by friends of newlyweds who had just started off on their honeymoon. But he wasn't fairly about it. Getting married is the big adventure in most folks' lives, and everybody has smiling tolerance for the fuss that is made even the blushing bride and the flustered groom as they are launched on the sea of matrimony.

Some Hooverizers

There's one family at the West Side that honestly thinks that it is entitled to a diploma from Mr. Hoover. His admonitions against waste have been taken to heart and mistress, maid and all hands have done their best to be economical as to food. That they have succeeded was borne in upon them the other day when the city garbage collector came around. There wasn't much in the can to reward him for his call and seeing the maid at the back door he inquired, "Doesn't anybody live here now?"

And it is just because of that natural question that the family is putting on airs.—Brookton Enterprise.

They're All Alike

The oleaginous fortune that gushes sometimes from the earth in parts of Oklahoma and other states had sprouted from the derrick in the back yard of old John Adams, who had hitherto provided a sometimes meager living for himself and wife by doing odd jobs about town. The old couple surveyed their potential wealth. John turned and cast a disapproving eye over his partner's attire. "Now, Maggie," he said, "let last you can get you some decent clothes."

"I'll do nothing of the sort, John," was the reply. "I'll get some of the kind all the other women are wearing."

Canals Dorothea

Dorothea's aunt was visiting with Dorothea's somewhat wealthy and particular parents, who had brought up their daughter after their own manner. The aunt and the girl were about to go out, when the girl observed:

"Are you going out, auntie? You've got a hole in your veil."

"Have I?" replied the aunt. "I'm afraid I haven't time to change it now."

"Oh, well, it's not a very big one," replied the girl, "and, after all, I don't suppose anyone will know you're my aunt."—Argonaut.

"Our Beloved Youngest"

The London Times prints on its first page an "In Memoriam" department in which relatives and friends of the dead may publicly register their affection for the departed. It has been a crowded column these last three years, at once touching for the evidence of grief and inspiring for its signs of bravery. Of all the things of which the English have been accused, the strangest is that which says the race lacks sentiment.

Here is a sample advertisement: "In unflinching memory of our beloved youngest, Harry Atheling Russell, Lieutenant 2—8th Middlesex, attached R.F.C., who was killed in aerial action, 5th April, aged 24. (Mentioned in dispatches.)

"Children, say not good night. But in your brighter time, wish us good morning."

May we, when the long lists of the casualties come over the cables, be as courageous. It is no decadent race that can set down its losses and then let the world know, by line and verse that it purposes not to weep.—Toledo Blade.

The Fourth of July

So you don't know what the 4th of July is all about, eh, Kaiser Wilhelm? Well, I see it's something like this Bill—Us "Idiotic Yankies." For the last 142 years or so, we have made a holiday of this day, because we remember of the day we figured out. That no guy was big enough to run this planet, and our Country his way, and make us eat out of his hand with his foot on our necks! D'ye get us? Today we are still at it! Over here, and "over there!" We usually celebrate today with small fireworks, only this year Bill, we are doing the real thing in fireworks, "over there," by setting them off in Europe's imperial direction. With the same idea, that no Casaba with that "divine Authority" bunk, is going to stifle this old mud. Ball to suit his appetite! And that means you Ditty Bill! And we're gonna celebrate the 4th every day from now on until we've packed you in moth balls for some museum as the last Wild man of this earth! Allouray is dead! Long live the 4th!

Faith of America

When the sons of our soil By the hands of their toil Declared men are equal and free, When they set that as seal Of American weal, As promise for you and for me; By their word and their sword and their pen, They proclaimed it to God and to men;

Let Truth and Right decide us! And if our hearts are void, Our hands are dust, Our swords are rust, On land and sea, But if our banners guide us To answer Freedom's call, Tho' You and I may fight or die, Ours shall not fail!

As our purpose is pure, So our cause shall endure. When the call of our bugles is heard, For the hearts of our state, Be they lowly or great, Rejoice in our old, old word, And again and again, We proclaim it to God and to men.—EDMUND VANCE COOKE.

MERCANTILE CLERKS ASSOCIATION DISCUSSES WAGE INCREASE

At a special meeting of the Mercantile Clerks association, held in Runels hall at 6.15 o'clock last night, to hear reports from a committee sent to interview the merchants concerning an increase in wages, as voted at the last meeting, it was announced that the A. G. Pollard Co. has already granted the increase but nothing has, as yet, been done by the other large stores. A committee consisting of five members, to be known as the organization committee, will continue this work and will report to the association concerning it at the next meeting.

STILL FINDING HIDDEN CLAUSES

The miseries of poor Rumania are piling up. Not only is her sea coast taken away, her rich oil fields, her lands and crops, but now in her peace treaty with Berlin she is finding so many other hidden and ambiguous clauses. These are impressively enumerated by a Rumanian writer to the London bureau of the Christian Science Monitor. To quote:

"Requisitions already made in the occupied Rumanian territory amount to $3,000,000. Further the country has to redeem the 'war banknotes' thrust upon her by the invader and to pay for the damage done to German property in Rumania, as well as the damage caused to neutrals by the German invasion, and, as a climax, the balances and deposits of the National bank in Rumania are to be placed at the disposal of Berlin for five years. The Teutonic spider is generous enough with his entangled fly. 'But the enemy is bent on destroying, from the outset, the national life of the Rumanian people. Over 400,000 Germans, Austrians, Magyars and Bulgars are forcibly declared Rumanian citizens. All the spies, traitors and Bolos, the first army of von Mackensen, are reinstated and honored in accordance with the German sense of morality. With the help of all these Statestosen the Germans want to rule the Rumanian helots and to prevent any democratic development. Even the religious life of the country is menaced and the 'propaganda' which some years ago nearly destroyed the Rumanian church is greatly encouraged by the treaty.

"Nothing is left to the Rumanian state save an empty name, but the Rumanian people are conscious that all these sacrifices were made in doing their duty. Occupied by the vilest of soldiers who ever disgraced the most elementary rights of the civility of war, with their country dismembered, starved, decimated, plundered, the Rumanian people owe nothing more than an unbroken faith in their noble allies and in the triumph of justice."—Holyoke Transcript.

THE LAST CZAR OF RUSSIA

The report that Nicholas Romanoff, the late czar of Russia, has been put to death by the Bolsheviks is accepted as true. The Romanoffs have not had a bed of roses in their rule over Russia. It is suspected that some of whom record is made that they died natural deaths, had their ends hastened by envious relatives by the administration of poison. Since 1800 there have been six Romanoff czars, three of whom have been done to death by violence. None of the czars has been free from constant apprehension of assassination. During their reigns they have walked in the valley of the shadow of death and have feared that evil. Their chance of escaping death has been less than that of soldiers in the inferno of the battlefields on the western front. Three out of the six have lost their lives by violence within the last 117 years. Paul was assassinated on the night of March 23, 1801, being succeeded by his son, Alexander I., who managed to die in bed after a reign of nearly 24 years. The heir to the throne was his oldest brother, Constantine, who passed the chance up, not being enamored of the prospects surrounding the throne. Nicholas, his younger brother, was otherwise minded, and ruled as czar for 30 years. His end, too, was peaceful. He was succeeded by his eldest son, Alexander II., who successfully dodged bombs, until one hurled by an anarchist got him in 1881. Alexander III. then came to the throne and in spite of plots for his taking off, parted this life from natural causes in 1894.

The fate of his successor, Nicholas II., is of recent history. He was a double tragedy. He lost his throne before losing his life. In all human probability Nicholas was the last of the czars of Russia, and the last Romanoff to wear the purple of royalty, ending a dynasty of a family which came to the throne of Russia in the person of Michael Romanoff by election of the nobles in 1613. Great Caesar is dead and turned to clay.—Fitchburg Sentinel.

HOW THE BIG LEAGUERS LOOK —BRAVES MAY BE THE DARK HORSE

The turning point of the baseball season is July 4. Although this date does not exactly divide the season in equal parts, it is recognized as the time when the big league clubs begin their big drives for the pennant.

With one exception in the history of baseball, it has been the rule that a club out of the running July 4 would have no chance at the pennant. The exception was the Boston Braves of 1914.

July 4, then, is the logical time to get a line on the clubs to form an idea of how they will finish in the fall.

Conditions this year are so complicated by men being called into service that it is rather hard to form an opinion on how the clubs will finish. The prediction made in this article will be based on what the clubs have done so far and considering the clubs as they appear at this time.

The American League
All conditions considered, the American league race this fall should develop into one of the most hotly contested in the life of the league.

Right now there are five clubs which must be considered in the running—Boston, New York, Cleveland, Chicago and Washington.

I do not look for the White Sox to repeat this year. The club, erratic at its best in 1917, has been torn by war conditions until it presents a far different aspect than the club which won the championship last fall.

The Chicago pitching staff is sadly weakened by the loss of Faber and Williams. The loss of Jackson cut tremendously into the offensive strength.

Right now, the class of the league seems to be in the east. The New York club and Boston Red Sox are dangerous to any other club's aspirations. Managers of four other clubs in the league have told me the club that beats out the Yankees will win the pennant. Whether this club can go along as well without Pipp, who will be caught in the next draft, remains to be seen.

The Red Sox will go through the season with the strongest pitching staff in the league, but probably will lose more players in the draft.

Cleveland, with an unchanged lineup, will be a dangerous factor for anything in the league, but if Chapman is lost before the end of the season, Fohl will have a big problem on his hands.

Clark Griffith has a great deal of faith in his Nationals, and they may prove a factor in the race.

Right now, the best bet in the league is Boston, with New York a close second.

It is hard to imagine Detroit, Philadelphia or St. Louis out of the second division.

The National League
The Cubs should win. Here is a ball club with a great pitching staff, a fair all-around offensive, and a club organization and the winning spirit. The New York club is not showing the best of form and the loss of Benton and Kauff was a great blow. It would not be surprising to see the Braves crowd the Giants out of second place.

The Braves are now playing fast ball. Watch them, they will make the Cubs and Giants both step lively before the season is over.

The disappointment of the league, of course, is the Reds. On paper the Reds this year looked like a sure one-two-three club. Right now they are playing minor league baseball. Matty isn't getting what he should from the club and the men are not giving Matty half what they are capable of delivering.

It would not be surprising to see Brooklyn in the first division. This club looked hopeless at the start of the season, but has bucked up wonderfully.

Jack Hendricks has not been able to get the punch over at St. Louis and Pittsburgh is proving a disappointment. Philadelphia never did look good.

WILL COST MORE TO GET TRIMMED
At a meeting of the Master Barbers' association held last evening it was decided to raise the price of a hair cut from 25 to 35 cents, beginning this morning and until further notice, this action being taken after an endorsement had been received from Local 223, Barbers' union. The increase is due to the high cost of living, the increase of barbers' supplies, barbers' towels, and wages. It was also decided to close all shops at 10 o'clock Saturday evenings and the nights before holidays. The following were elected to represent the organization at the Barbers' convention to be held at Gloucester in August: John B. Curtin, James Morrison, George Mousette, M. J. Hoar and Patrick Gibbons.

OPENING OF THE NEW PARSONAGE OF ST. PAUL'S M. E. CHURCH

After a reception which began in the early afternoon, the new parsonage of the St. Paul's M. E. church at 33 Burrill street was officially opened last evening. Rev. John L. Cairns, who was recently elected pastor, received many congratulations from more than 175 members of his parish.

It is the first time in a number of years that the church has owned its own parsonage and the event was duly celebrated. The present parsonage, which was the recent property of Mrs. Herman Phillips, was taken over in the spring for the use of the church.

The reception was held from 3 to 5 o'clock and from 8 to 10 o'clock and during these hours Rev. Mr. Cairns received more than 175 of his parishioners who congratulated him on his new residence. Mr. Barker rendered two piano selections in a pleasing manner and Booth's orchestra played. During the course of the evening refreshments were served. The Ladies Aid society and the T.M.T.M. club were in charge of the event.

PREPARE FOR YOUR WAR WORK "OVER HERE"

Girls belonging to the bureau of Identification of the navy are uniquely employed. They are fingerprint classifiers. By means of unlar loops and rings and whorls they can find a soldier's name. Or in five minutes they can tell whether a man's print was ever made before in their department.

Miss Marie Dahm, fingerprint expert, was the second woman of her profession to enter the government service. Miss Blanche A. Donohue passed her examinations third in a list most of whom were men. Miss Julia G. Boswell and Miss Blanche Stansbury are indispensable in an office which now has on file the fingerprint records of 600,000 men.

WAGE INCREASE FOR PARK DEPARTMENT EMPLOYEES

The sum of $1,000 appropriated by the municipal council last Saturday for the playgrounds, which are under the supervision of the park department, will go towards increasing the wages of the park department employees from $2 to $2.50 a day. This action was taken at a special meeting of the park board, which was held last evening. The members of the board believed it would be better to curtail on the playgrounds and give the employees of the department a living wage, and beginning this week, Monday, and as long as the money lasts, the employees of the department will be paid at the rate of $3.50 a day.

At the close of the business session, the members of the board held a conference with the playground supervisors, and it was decided to start the playground sessions next Monday morning. The morning hours will be from 9 to 11, and the afternoon from 2 to 4. The assignment of supervisors was made as follows, the first named on each playground being held responsible for the conduct of the playground.

South common: Mary M. Cowell, full time; Bawita Lawler, full time;

Louise F. Mahoney, full time; Dorothy Driscoll, full time.
North common: Mary E. Carolan, full time; Helen A. Castles, full time; Margaret T. Donovan, full time; Natalie McQuade, full time.

Lincoln school: Esther L. Conney, half time; Anne E. Reynolds, half time.

An additional playground is being conducted and contributed by the Middlesex Women's club, using the grounds at the high school. The school committee has permitted the use of the necessary school houses to aid the playground work.

ASSUMPTIONIST COLLEGE FUND
The secretary of the local committee for the raising of funds for the erection of an addition to the Assumptionist college at Worcester has submitted a report of the work performed in this city. The total number of subscriptions was 2210, making the average of each subscription 10 cents. The canvassers who had cards of over $25 and the number of subscriptions on each card, were as follows:

UNUSUAL CEREMONIES AT CAMP DEVENS—MEN HELD WITHOUT BEING TAKEN INTO ARMY

CAMP DEVENS, July 3.—Singular ceremonies were staged here yesterday afternoon to bring into the army legally 118 men who were picked up in Lawrence factories and street corners last week and sent here as draft evaders, but who had never been inducted into service formally, it turned out.

The Y.M.C.A. auditorium, which served last week as a naturalization court and one night as a barracks, was the setting yesterday for the strangest combination of official bodies yet to sit at this military post.

On the platform was Judge J. M. Maloney presiding as United States commissioner. Seated near him was Fred Weyand of the department of justice, here to supervise straightening out of the tangle.

Around tables below was the Ayer local selection board.

In turn the 118 were brought before the commissioner to plead to the charge of not having filed questionnaires. Your case is continued until July 5," Judge Maloney would announce to each, and thereupon the "evader" would be led to the Ayer draft board table. Promptly the board inducted each man into the military service for failure to show proof that questionnaire had been filed.

Then the draft board would turn each man in turn over to the army officers, 1st Lieut. J. E. Peniston of the 4th company, who had 71 from Lawrence, and Capt. James J. Maguire of the 47th, who had 41 from that city.

What usually takes days or weeks for drafters and selection boards, took only a matter of minutes for these men rounded up in Lawrence.

July 5 will never come for them, so far as another hearing of their cases in civil courts is concerned. They are in the army now, because they hadn't filed questionnaires, and they, as soldiers, no longer have recourse to civil action.

The involved and somewhat summary procedure in their cases was made necessary by an apparent misunderstanding of the roundup orders in Lawrence. And it has caused much trouble to draft officials and officers here.

The Lawrence lot were bundled off to Ayer in trucks, evidently with no hearing or investigation whatever of their cases by the local boards. Not having been inducted into service by the boards there, the officers there had no claim on the men; they weren't in the army, although in camp.

Several Cripples Among "Evaders"

The officers could simply hold the men until the formality of induction was carried through. But some of them the officers had no desire to induct. There were men obviously over 31 and under 21. These were discharged. There was one with one eye; one with one foot missing; one with an artificial piece of bone in his leg, so that he walked exactly like a man with a wooden leg; one had several fingers missing.

Commissioner Maloney could not discharge them because they could not prove questionnaires filed, but they were held for an Aug. 30 hearing, to give them time to file a questionnaire and be exempted by their local board. They shouldn't be left here to clog up the rush work of fitting an army for France, the commissioner decided.

A number of men had conclusive proof that they had been placed in Classes 4 and 5.

In Greater Boston 1000 of these so-called slackers were rounded up, but the local boards examined the men with some care before sending them to camp, and as a result only about 250 of the 1000 ever reached here. The others proved the truth of statements regarding their registration.

One of the Boston evaders had a tale to tell when he arrived here of being robbed of $24.70 by one of the men set to guard over them in Boston.

In the 6th company, Depot Brigade, there was another sort of tangle. Two brothers came in last week with the Dorchester draftees, Joseph E. and W. D. Cataldo of Tonlig street. It seems that W. D. asked to be inducted when he learned that his brother was due on that call, so both came along.

Then the doctors here rejected one of the brothers for flat feet, leaving the other in; and the one left behind was the one who had been voluntarily inducted, according to the story that first went to headquarters. Later investigation proved it was the other way around, the one who really had to come is the one still here.

Ten Years' Term for Cote

Ten years at hard labor was a general court-martial sentence pronounced today, imposed on Private Horace F. Cote of Orange, who volunteered last fall as a member of the 33d Engineers, who was found guilty of being absent without leave from April 6 until May 5, when he was arrested at Binghamton, N. Y., and also of stealing motorcycle from Joseph Barone in Claremont, N. H., while he was away.

The main Knights of Columbus building is to be greatly enlarged, by the addition of a wide porch and a number of new rooms. It was announced today by Gen. Sec. Arthur Cooper, former Boston sporting writer and Red Sox scout, who is in charge of the K. of C. recreational work here.

Judge Marcus Morton of the Massachusetts superior court of Newton, whose son, Capt. Marcus Morton, Jr., is adjutant of the 303d artillery, reported at camp yesterday as a volunteer Red Cross worker, to assist through the summer R. M. Cushman, associate field director, in charge of home service.

Major Gen. Hodges has a new chauffeur, Sergt. Carroll, former chauffeur for a Holyoke bank president. Sergt. Carroll has a mother living "two miles outside of Dublin," and he is praying that the 76th Division will camp in fair Ireland some day.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON MADE CAPTAIN

Thomas Livingston, eldest son of Andrew Livingston, superintendent of steamfitting for the Hobson & Lawler Co. of this city, has been commissioned a captain in France, where he has been serving since last fall with the 101st Supply Train. Capt Livingston has been in the national service for 25 years. He was first lieutenant of Co. G of the old 6th Regiment in the Spanish-American war. He was awarded a captaincy upon his return, but in a short while he severed his connections with the military game temporarily to accept an executive position with the Boston Elevated road. In a few months he re-enlisted in the 8th Massachusetts Regiment, stationed at Everett. He served at the Mexican border with this unit and when the forces of the state were mobilized for overseas duty, more than a year ago, he went into camp at Lynnfield. Later, he was transferred to Co. C of the 101st Supply Train, and with this unit sailed to France.

HOPE FOR THIS COUNTRY

To the war mothers of America, before all others who celebrate the day, this Fourth of July, 1918, carries the deepest significance.

As a mother grows old, her hope rests in her sons. As she grows wiser, she learns that the hope of her country rests also in her sons—and the hope of liberty—and the hope of democracy.

And so the war mothers sacrifice their personal claims to the general good. But only the mother heart knows what the struggle is.

For years, when these war mothers were just plain everyday home mothers, they brought their boys from childhood to manhood by years of hard work and self-denial, with the faith that a precious reward awaited them at the end of their days, that their sons would be there to share with them the strength in the hour of their weakness.

Then, almost overnight, they were changed from simple happy "peace" mothers to the "War Mothers of America." Their country had taken their sons.

"Freedom for all. Forever" means that these war mothers have still more work to do.

What it is put briefly by D. T. Curtin, a writer who has seen the war mothers in eleven campaigns in seven countries:

"The growing American army and participation in the battle in France means that our mothers will have the agony of saying at home and abroad, 'It is the hardest thing to bear. The only relief that is truly lasting is to find work of a kind that will back up the men at the front. The worst thing any woman can do now is to sit down and think.'"

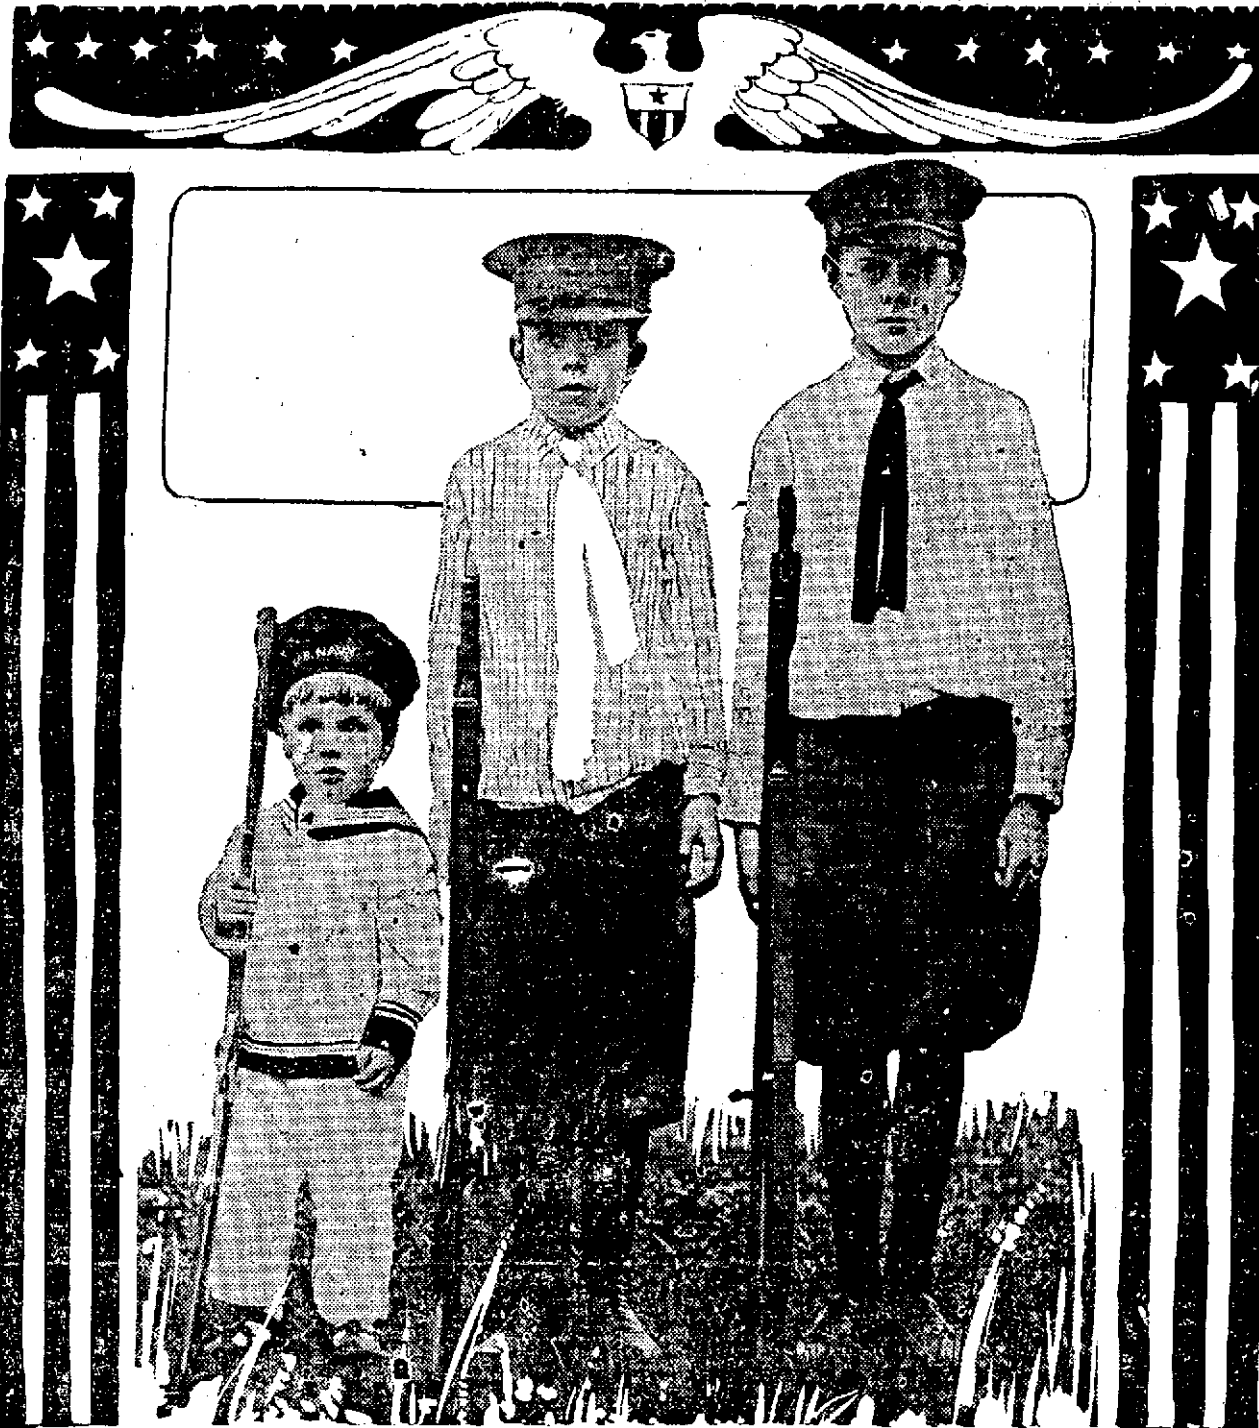

"American mothers have a logical demand to make—that all leaders throw aside politics to prepare and support an army big enough for victory within the shortest possible time."

The supreme service of the war mother is to keep her hand from staying each younger son as he comes of age, and to give her voice to a great propaganda for bigger armies, and to urge unmarried sons more than 21 years old to back up the boys already overseas.

This means more war mothers and more war mothers to join those already mobilizing in many cities.

And at last it means the woman's dream come true—Free mothers in a land where there shall be no more war.

WINONA WILCOX.

A LETTER TO BILL THE BRUTAL, HEAD OF THE HUNS

Kaiser, you're going to be licked. You've got that coming to you, all right, and you know it. You may be fooling the German people into believing that you won't get this licking, but you will! Take our word for that.

We are American boys, too young to fight you, but not too young to get ready to fight you.

We have fathers and brothers and uncles "over there" in France, and they are fighting you.

More of our fathers and brothers and uncles are training here at home to go "over there" to fight you.

And still more of them will train and go "over there."

They will keep on training and going "over there" just as long as there are any left to go.

There is only one thing that can stop this endless stream of fighting men going over to give you a licking.

That thing is your defeat, kaiser.

We can lick you, all right, and lick you good and proper.

If our fathers and brothers and uncles can't lick you, we will be ready to take our turn at it.

Just as our fathers are now fighting you, so will we fight you, kaiser, and we will be better fighters than our dads are, because we have already started to train.

We are being raised to be soldiers, kaiser, so that if you are not licked before we grow up we will jump into the war with both feet and fists. Only a terrible and thorough licking for you now will save you from getting it later on, you or your son or your grandson, following in your footsteps along your chosen path of greed, inhumanity and brutality.

And, kaiser, let us tell you this:

If our fathers can't lick you, and we can't lick you when we grow up, then we will train our sons to be soldiers, from the very day they step from their cradles, and we will charge them with the duty, the duty we place above all others—that of licking you.

We will tell our boys that they must hold no other ambition nearer or dearer than that which now inspires our fathers, and which they will bequeath to us.

O, no! kaiser, you're not fighting that "contemptible little American army" which you pretended to ridicule a year or so ago. You are going to fight every able-bodied American man from now until the last day this earth exists, unless you are licked sooner.

You are not fighting the Americans of today alone!

You are going to fight the Americans of tomorrow, of all the generations to come, unless you are defeated, and power to disturb the world's peace is taken from you and your successors.

That's our Fourth of July spirit.

That's our every day spirit.

That's our every hour spirit.

And it will stay with us until you are licked so badly that you nor your son nor your grandson nor any other kaiser will ever dare to hurl the whole world into the hell of war to satisfy his own cruel and selfish ambitions.

And, kaiser, while we are training and getting ready to take our fathers' places in the line against you, if you can fight that long, we are going to do everything and anything we can to help our dads fight you now.

We will sell Thrift Stamps and Liberty Bonds, and we will save our money to buy both. We will work to earn more money to spend for guns to aim at you. We will help grow food, and we will help save food. And we will do what else our president asks us to do to help our fathers and uncles and brothers fight you.

Now, we're through talking to you, kaiser. We just want to pound into your brutal brain this:

Our fathers will lick you!

If they don't lick you we will!

And if we die before we get the job done our sons will lick you!

You've got a licking coming, kaiser!

Don't you forget that!

BOYS OF AMERICA.

WORK OR FIGHT

Brighton Draft Board to Determine Status of the Baseball Players

Chairman Summons 14 Members of the Boston National League Team

BOSTON, July 3.—The issue of whether professional baseball players are productive workers or good fighting material, under the "work or fight" rules, will be fought out right here in Boston. At least, the initiative in determining the status of the ball players of the Boston National League Baseball club has been undertaken by local board 25 of Brighton, in which district Braves field and the headquarters of the club are located.

Chairman Fred E. Dowling of board 25 last evening issued the following statement:

"Notice was sent out by our board tonight to members of the Boston National League club requesting them to appear before our local board next Friday evening, July 5, at 8 o'clock. Since the notices were issued we have learned that the Boston team leaves Boston on Thursday. We do not intend to unnecessarily interfere with the sport of baseball nor with the men."

"Under the law which is imposed upon us as a local board we are required to give the men a hearing, and if Friday is not convenient another time will be set. We intend to be agreeable in the matter, but we must carry out the requirements of the law."

Total of 14 Men Affected

The 14 players who must appear before the board, probably upon the return of the club from the second western trip, are: Henry, Wilson and Truesdale, catchers; Ragan, Hearn, Uppham, Rudolph, Neft and Fillingim, pitchers; "Red" Smith, Jimmy Smith and Johnny Rawlings, infielders; and Al Wickland and Ray Massey, outfielders. Walter Rong, Ray Pettit and Joe Kelly, outfielders, will report for duty with the Naval Reserves at Newport Friday and consequently will not be affected by the inquiry of the Brighton board, and Capt. Horos, first baseman Ed Kometchy and Pitcher Tom Hughes are beyond the military age.

The board is undertaking the investigation without any intention of disrupting the game and entirely without prejudice.

Without question, according to the members of the board, the Brighton board is acting within its authority in undertaking the inquiry. It matters not where registrants have been placed by their home boards, they can be summoned for investigation under the "work or fight" rules by board 25 regardless of any classification they might hold.

Should the Brighton board decide that the members of the Braves are engaged in a non-productive occupation an appeal may be taken to the district board, of which Judge Cohen is chairman. Should that board affirm the finding of the local board the matter may be squarely put up to Provost Gen. Crowder himself, who all along has said that he would not discuss the "work or fight" rule as they might apply to ball players until a specific case had come to him from a local board.

George H. McDermott of Allston, the government appeal agent for this district, will assist the board in making the inquiry.

Women in Many Occupations

That the "work or fight" rule has affected all branches of industry and occupation in Boston is becoming more noticeable each day. Women are suggested men in various occupations. The government's edict that waiting on table, operating elevators, selling goods behind the counter and similar occupations are non-essentials, has released hundreds of men for war work, and already women are running elevators in the most conservative hotels and office buildings. Many of the largest clubs of the city are employing women waiters for the first time, and in some instances the members of the fair sex are running club elevators as well.

Girls are running elevators at the Lenox and Copley Plaza hotels, and women waitresses have supplanted the men at the Touraine. The Harvard club and B.A.A. have women waitresses, and the City club has adopted a self-service system in its grill room. At the Hotel Brunswick men more than 50 years old are running the elevators.

FIGHT OR STUDY

Tech. Students who Fail to Pass Must Go to War

BOSTON, July 3.—Students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology during the next college year who fail to meet the scholastic requirements will be inducted into the military service. The plan, urged by prominent alumni and endorsed by the war department, was made known today by the college authorities. In effect, the students must either "fight or study." It is understood that the ruling will not apply to students under 21 years of age.

HORSE RACES TOMORROW AT GOLDEN COVE

The Lowell Driving club has planned some good racing for tomorrow afternoon at Golden Cove park for purses amounting to $800. The card is more pretentious than any race event the club has put on since its beginning and if perchance the weather should prove unfavorable the races will take place on Saturday afternoon.

The active members of the club, and there are quite a number of live wires connected with it, have been planning the big event for weeks. The track is in the pink of condition and the majority of horses to appear in the races are star performers.

There have always been a few good horses in Lowell and the number has been added to considerably of late. Greater interest is being manifested in matters having to do with the club and just for that many improvements are noted. A club house with a broad piazza is being fitted up at the park and this will add greatly to the convenience and enjoyment of members. The track, as has been heretofore stated, is in fine shape and many horses are being trained this year. More rivalry exists in the club races than has ever before and the open free-for-all trot and pace tomorrow afternoon will be a corker. This and other races will include many out-of-town horses.

It might not be out of place to state in connection with the club and its activities that Lowell has some promising colts coming along. So promising, in fact, that they are classed with the very best prospects in this section of the country. And mention of the colts introduces one of the fastest and greatest brood mares this country has ever seen—Princess Monette, 2:10 1/2, and she is in Lowell, too. Princess Monette is the dam of six splendid colts and four of these are in Lowell. The oldest, the pacer, with speed to burn, is owned by Thomas F. Hoban. The best horseman in the country predict a brilliant future for this handsome and clever actor. Next comes a handsome trotter owned by James Droney and a yearling and filly owned by P. A. Lawton. The dam and colts constitute the "bravest" looking brood family that Lowell has entertained for many moons.

Tomorrow's Races

PERSHING DAY

July Fourth is Pershing Day Back in Jack's Old Home Town

Jack is From Missouri and the Germans Have Got to Show Him

(By Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

LACLEDGE, Mo., July 3.—Tomorrow is Pershing day in this town. Elsewhere in America it is only Independence Day. This Fourth is both Independence Day and Pershing Day to the folks of General John Joseph Pershing's home town.

Laclede's Main street is all aflutter with flags, bunting and pictures of the town's greatest citizen. So are all the dwelling houses. Many prominent men and women will be here to celebrate Pershing Day with the people of Laclede and Lynn-co., and the general has sent some of his veterans back from "over there" to lend a touch of war to the ceremonies.

Few folks here will trust themselves to go soundly to sleep tonight, so anxious are they to be up with the sun tomorrow so they won't miss a chance to add their cheers to John's celebration.

For instance, there is "Charley" Spurgeon, who also Jack Pershing's boyhood pal, closer together than two peas in a pod. It's worth coming along to conduct boxing etc. for members only. There are four numbers on the program, each one promising to prove very interesting. In the main event, Eddy Graham and Johnny Donovan will appear. They are scheduled to entertain for 12 rounds. In the next contest of importance, Tony Vatan and Al Gerard will meet. Two six-rounders will be pulled off. Two six-rounders will be pulled off. Two six-rounders will be pulled off.

SHORT SHIP CIRCUIT RACES AT WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Conn., July 3.—Because Bobby C. acted badly in the third race yesterday afternoon, Billy Fleming just escaped a complete cleanup of first places on the opening program here of the second meeting of the Bay State Short Ship Circuit, held over the Sage Park track.

Fleming's horses were in rare form for speed, the Windsor driver winning the 2:16 pace with Lord Lochabar in straight heats, the 2:22 trot with Rosa Watts in three straight heats and getting fourth money in the 2:12 trot with Bobby C.

All three races drew good fields, particularly the 2:16 pacing class, which had 14 starters. Lord Lochabar had the pole and in every heat was never in serious danger, holding the lead throughout.

Seven horses took the word in the 2:12 trot and again Fleming's charge was the class. Rosa Watts slipped in behind Miss Colorado, who had the pole, and stayed there until the bay mare broke at the three-quarters post, the chestnut mare forging to the front.

The only split heat race was the 2:22 trot, Bobby C. being well in front at the half when he went to a break as Director Todd challenged him, and Brusie drove the gelding home first.

Brusie laid back in the second heat and Mint Mark was an easy winner, but in the next two all efforts to part of Director Todd to overtake Mint Mark were useless.

Ed Gillies, driving, Miss Rice in the second heat of the 2:16 pace, came into collision with the horse in front of him as it went to a break. His sulky was overturned and broken, but neither the horse nor the driver was injured. The summary:

Have the Huns got General Pershing scared? Away with your foolish questions. Above are four pictures of the general, smiling to beat the band every time. But those laugh-filled eyes can look serious (Berlin papers copy this), as shown by a close-up picture of the general's eyes taken when he is looking eastward—On to Berlin!

Laclede boys stopped worshipping baseball heroes. One day the general returned, this time from Mexico. He was on his way to France—beg pardon, on to Berlin!—and Laclede nearly tore itself loose from its earthly moorings to do proper honor to the occasion. Never since that day has Laclede given a thought to such ordinary affairs as business and play.

Morning, noon and night, it is: "John's knocking the daylight out of the Huns!"

"You bet, it's all right," John bet, it's all right, and John there and no one but John, right here in his home town.

Some one said something about a prophet not being honored in his home town? Well, he's all wrong. General Jack Pershing says:

"Germany can be beaten, Germany will be beaten."

There isn't an oldtimer in Lynn-co. who wouldn't bet his last dollar, his last gallus button, his last mouthful of food on Jack Pershing's prophecy.

Your Garden

ROOT OUT CLUB ROOT
What was that the poet wrote about "Cabbages and Kings"? Well, at any rate the cabbages which are growing in the war gardens of the United States are going to help to beat one king: The Kaiser would be mighty well pleased if he could kill off all these cabbages with club root, black rot or some of the other diseases which attack this plant and its half-sister, cauliflower.

Club root is so-called because the root swells, becomes misshapen and decays, says today's bulletin from the national war garden commission, which is offering $10,000 for best canned vegetables.

There is no remedy except to pull up and burn diseased plants, but there is a simple preventive. Just apply one pound of air-slaked lime on each eight square feet of surface and work it into the ground before the plants are set.

Black rot is another insidious disease. The leaves turn yellow, then brown and black and soon decay. There is a preventive which is very simple. It consists in soaking the cabbage seed for 15 minutes in a solution made of one scant teaspoonful of formalin in a pint of water. Then rinse the seed in clean water and plant at once or dry for further use.

Yellow is another affliction which cannot be prevented or cured. The leaves turn yellow, then brown and drop. Pull up and burn all sick plants. Further details on this and other points in regard to the care of vegetables are contained in the war garden manual which any reader of this paper can secure by simply writing to the national war garden commission, Washington, sending a two-cent stamp for postage.

Another leg. Areas of various sizes on the leaves, leaf stems and main stem become diseased and sunken finally turning purplish in color. Pull up and burn all plants which show signs of this trouble. There is a simple preventive measure which should be observed. Sprinkle two quarts of Bordeaux mixture on each five square feet of the seed bed as soon as the seeds are planted and in two weeks spray with Bordeaux and then spray again before the plants are taken up for setting in the garden. Use two or three ounces of laundry or other soap in each gallon of Bordeaux to make it stick to the glossy leaves. With these precautions attended to you can raise healthy plants which will give you a good crop.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM

Commission Takes Liberal

View of Lowell's Needs—Plan Not Completed

Special to The Sun.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—The housing commission of the labor department submitted to congress by the liberality of its recommendations. An appropriation of only sixty million dollars had been made but the estimates submitted as to the urgent needs of cities mounted up to more than a hundred million dollars and the total for ample provision in the future reached a far higher sum. Only such cases as the war or navy department had recommended were considered in the allocations. In some instances the report of the committee handling the general deficiency bill went into details as to how the money should be expended but in others no specific recommendations were made and only a sum for the total recommended.

Houses, hotels and dormitories all came in for a share of recommendation to fit the pressing needs of cities in widely separated sections of the country. New England states included were Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire and Maine. Lowell got splendid recognition in its first allotment of $1,000,000 to be followed by a proposed allotment of $500,000 additional. Its requirements were placed at $11,000,000, but no immediate provision was made for that amount. The committee report states that accommodations are required for 6000 employees and recommends 350 be placed in 175 houses; 500 in hotels for men and 125 in hotels for women under the first allotment. No details are supplied for the use of the second proposed allotment. RICHARDS.

Fourth of July

has the real meaning and significance of the birth of our country being brought out as it is planned to bring it out tomorrow.

The much-heralded pageant of the allies, of course, will be the dominating material feature of the celebration. This will take place in the early evening, starting at 6 o'clock sharp, and promises to be most unique in Lowell parade annals. The time set for the affair is a most suitable one, for it will enable practically everybody to see the turn-out. The amusements of that afternoon will have been over by that time and those of the evening will have the floor all to itself as far as counter attractions are concerned. Several midway will be in operation, of course, but they will be of a continuous nature and may be seen at any time.

The route of the parade has been decided upon only after an exhaustive study of traffic conditions and the realization that many of women and old men are to participate. The parade will form in Westford street, near the state armory, and will proceed from Westford to Chelmsford street, thence to Central, Merrimack, Bridge and Sixth streets, where a counter-march will take place and the procession continue through Read, to Seventh, Bridge and Merrimack to Cardinal O'Connell parkway. Here the marchers will turn into the parkway and will go down Market street, where dismissal will take place.

It is expected that this place of dismissal will prove most satisfactory, as it will bring the marchers away from the crowded streets and they will not be interfered with by the thousands of spectators that will inevitably line the route march. Between 30 and 35 organizations will take part and there will be six divisions. Plenty of bands will furnish music for the marchers. A number of floats have been entered and these should prove one of the features of the occasion. Practically every nationality of the city will be represented and it will be truly a "pageant of the allies." Mayor Perry D. Thompson is chief marshal and Major Walter R. Jeyes chief of staff. Marchers are requested to report to the place mentioned in the general orders published below promptly at 5.45, as the parade will start at 6 o'clock, no matter how many organizations are on hand at that time.

Several additional entries besides those already published were received today. Girls of the Eyerlastic Co. of Cambridge street, are among the newcomers, and this morning two young boys came into the war work headquarters and asked if they might participate, as they had two donkeys they wanted to appear in line. Permission was granted.

Following the dismissal of the marchers which will probably be about 7.30 o'clock, bands will proceed to parks and commons to give concerts. The schedule as present arranged, which is subject to changes, is as follows: Cardinal O'Connell parkway, Lowell Cadet band; Highland club grounds, U. S. Cartridge Co. band; Chelmsford street hospital, Lowell Military band; North common, Scottish Pipe band.

Other Activities
Surrounding the big parade there will be innumerable other activities on the holiday as well as on the "night before." The traditional midway on the South common opens for business this afternoon in all its emblazoned glory with many new features as well as the old standbys. The midway will be in continuous operation until late tomorrow night.

The "night before" will be observed at the Y.M.C.A. this evening with open to all members and friends of the association. Sergt. Blinnman of the Canadian Overseas Forces will tell the story of his experiences, Secretary Harvey of Y.M.C.A. building No. 21, at Camp Devens, will tell of his work, entertainers will be on hand and refreshments will be served. It is expected that there will be a large crowd on hand and soldier visitors are especially welcome.

The Knights of Columbus will also hold open house both this evening and tomorrow and here, too, soldiers are cordially invited.

The Vesper Country club will have a golf tournament starting at 10 a. m. The Nashua Country club will hold an open day tomorrow and golfers from this city and surrounding towns are invited to attend. Francis Ouimet, the famous golfer, will give an exhibition and the proceeds of the affair are to be donated to the Red Cross.

The Sacred Heart church will hold its annual lawn party and fete tomorrow at the church grounds in Moore street and it is expected that this event will draw a large crowd. The affair will continue throughout the afternoon and evening.

Various amateur baseball teams have arranged both morning and afternoon games for the holiday and several followers of the national pastime will find plenty of opportunity for enjoyment on the various commons and playgrounds of the city.

Tomorrow afternoon the Lowell Driving club will stage horse races at Golden Cove park in Chelmsford street for the benefit of the drill ground fund. In the evening the Crescent Athletic club will make its introductory bow at the Crescent building in Hurd street and a fine program of boxing bouts has been staged for the members.

The various theatres will have special programs for the holiday and the outlying parks will be open to cater to their pleasure seekers.

All in all, it should be a most satisfactory observance of the great American holiday.

C.M.A.C. APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO PREPARE FLOAT FOR THE BIG PARADE

At a meeting of the C.M.A.C. held last evening the following committee was appointed to prepare a float for the Fourth of July parade: Adolphe Brassard, Ferdinand Rousseau, J. A. Fortier and J. L. Lamoureux. The float will represent the coming of Lafayette and Rochambeau to this country. The organization will not take part in the parade in a body owing to the fact that 130 of its members are at the front, but it will be represented. In the course of the meeting routine business was transacted and the treasurer was instructed to purchase for the association $500 worth of War Savings stamps.

N.E.A. Household Expert.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Mrs. Oliver Harriman's scheme for saving, by dehydration, all that is worth saving of the 1,000,000 pounds of fruits and vegetables which would otherwise spoil each summer month on the piers of New York, places her first among the women food conservers of the nation.

Mrs. Harriman has established a big central kitchen at the corner of Lexington avenue and 23rd street. Boy Scouts, organized under the mayor's committee, will salvage the materials and Mrs. Harriman's chemists and assistants will dry them. The product will be sold at cost to the of the order, reported on the doings of the convention.

Caisse Nationale

A regular meeting of the members of La Caisse Nationale de Benefices was held last evening at the Pawtucketville Social club with President Rodere Descheneaux in the chair. One application for membership was received and routine business was transacted.

All men cannot be president—all women cannot become the chief food conservers of the country—but any woman can enlist in the army of food savers and serve by drying a few pounds of fruits and vegetables by any one of the simple home processes of dehydration.

Persons most in need of it.

This huge and patriotic system of conserving perishable foods is the result of experiments made in Mrs. Harriman's Food Research laboratory which co-operates with the New York city bureau of foods and drugs.

Mrs. Harriman has studied food conservation ever since the war broke out. She has sent vast quantities of dried vegetable soup to Europe's prison camps through the Y.M.C.A. With shipping space at a premium, she believes that only by dehydrating perishable foodstuffs can America supply her armies properly and fulfill her obligations to her allies.

Mrs. Harriman advocates the community drying plant as the best possible way to conserve every pound of American garden produce. According to an estimate made in her laboratory, it costs $4 to buy tin cans to hold $3 worth of tomatoes. Housewives who face this particular item of expense at the beginning of the canning season will naturally consider dehydration as a substitute for canning.

French Advance Half Mile on Two-Mile Front and Capture 220 Prisoners—Minor Reverse for British North of Albert—German Attacks in Attempt to Hurl Back Americans Fail—New Gains for Italians

By The Associated Press.
Last night on the French front, was marked by another of the sharp, incisive operations by which the allies are, from day to day, improving their positions in anticipation of the renewal of the German offensive.

General Petain's troops on this occasion drove in on a two mile front near Moulin-sous-Toutvent, between the Oise and the Aisne, and penetrated the German lines to a depth of approximately half a mile. They took 220 prisoners.

Minor Reverse for British

The British front, on the other hand, witnessed a minor reverse for Field Marshal Haig's gallant fighters, who were obliged to relinquish a large part of the ground they had gained Sunday night in a local operation near Bouzincourt, north of Albert.

Germans Regain Ground

The Germans began on Monday desperate efforts to recapture the valuable high ground from which they had been forced, but were then able to gain a footing in their old line with a furious bombardment, and then delivered an attack which gave them back the greater portion of their lost positions.

The French success in the Montinsous-Toutvent operation was achieved almost at the base of the German salient which projects to the Marne.

Operatives Will Be Instructed to Return to Work

National Board Answers Message Sent by Lowell Mill Treasurers' Association—One of Board's Principles Is That There Shall Be No Strikes During the War—Representatives of the National Board Arrive in Lowell

BOSTON, July 3.—A specific request that it order striking cotton mill employees at Lowell to return to work at once and submit the matters in controversy to the board, was telegraphed the national war labor board today by the Lowell Mill Treasurers' association. The association yesterday made a general request to the board that it intervene and also arrange to handle any similar controversies that might arise during the war or so long as the mills are engaged upon government contracts. The board stated that it would take such action upon a direct request and sent the following message:

"National war labor board can be called upon to adjust present dispute in your mills and other disputes which may arise during the war. One of the fundamental duties of this board is to maintain production and prevent any stoppage of work in war industries. Your wire is not clear as to whether you desire the board to take up the matter immediately or not. If you so desire, notify me and the men on strike will be instructed to return to work at once and submit matters in controversy to the board. One of the board's principles is that there shall be no strikes during the war."

The message was signed by W. J. Lauck, secretary.

Federal Board Men

Messrs. William P. Harvey and I. K. Russell of Washington, D. C., special field representatives for the national war labor board, arrived in Lowell this afternoon for the purpose of taking a hand in the settlement of the textile operatives' strike, which went into effect last Monday.

Messrs. Harvey and Russell were seen shortly after their arrival by a Sun reporter and they stated that while in Boston on their way to Lowell this forenoon they conferred briefly with A. R. Sharp, president of the Hamilton Mfg. Co., and C. B. Baker, chairman of the Lowell Mill Treasurers' association, and they supplied them with a blank to fill out, for according to the rules of the board both sides are requested to submit their side of the case unreservedly, and if they do, they pledge themselves to abide by any award made by the board. The mill officials accepted the blank and said it would be ready some time this afternoon. Messrs. Harvey and Russell then came to Lowell and arranged to meet President John Gold-amer of the United Textile Workers of America. If he is willing to submit the matter to the board the operatives will return to their work at once pending the finding of the board.

Mr. Harvey stated that the mission of the representatives of the national war labor board is not to interfere in labor troubles until all other means of settlement have been exhausted.

The national war labor board is composed of the following: F. C. Hood of the Hood Rubber Co., C. Edwin Michael, president of the Virginia Bridge & Iron Co., Loyall A. Osborne, vice president of the Westinghouse

Electric & Mfg. Co., W. H. Van Dervoort, president of the Van Dervoort Engineering Co., and P. L. Warden, president of the Lackawanna Bridge Co. for the employers; Frank J. Hayes, president of the United Mine Workers of America; William L. Hutchinson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America; William H. Johnson, president of the International Seamen's Union and F. A. Rickett, president of the United Garment Workers of America. There are two chairmen for the board, Hon. William H. Taft and Frank P. Walsh. In the absence of Chairman Taft, who is enjoying a two-months' vacation, Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis is one of the chairmen.

Executive Committee Met

The executive committee of the Lowell Textile council, which is conducting the strike, held a meeting in Labor hall, 32 Middle street, this forenoon with President Golden and Secretary-Treasurer Sara V. Conboy of the United Textile Workers of America in attendance. Mrs. Conboy arrived in Lowell this morning for the purpose of addressing a mass meeting of women weavers scheduled to be held at Associate hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

2,170,400 MEN WITH THE COLORS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Supplementing President Wilson's announcement that more than a million American troops had embarked for France, Chairman Dent of the military committee laid before the house today a review of war preparations during the 15 months of war, prepared by Secretary Baker. It shows that there are now 160,400 officers and 22,010,000 men with the colors, compared with a total of 95,234 officers and 202,510 men in the regulars and national guard 14 months ago.

The statement shows that 286 combat airplanes had been delivered up to June 8 and that the production rate of this type then was 80 per week. More than 2000 Liberty motors have been delivered and the production rate was 115 during the first week in June.

BLACKFISH HAUL 52 Blackfish Stranded Off Nantucket Island

NANTUCKET, July 3.—Fifty-two blackfish, burly of girth like puffing pigs, stranded on the north shore of Nantucket island today. Some of them were 20 feet long. Word that the season, the first seen here in more than 40 years, had come in with the tide spread quickly and crowds flocked to the shore to witness the slaughter. It was on exactly the same spot that Nantucket folk made a big blackfish haul on July 1, 1874, and fishermen today undertook to obtain all from the catch, as in the old whaling days.

HUNS DESERTING

Germans Learning to Fly Flee to Holland

LONDON, June 22 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Young Germans learning to fly are deserting into Holland wholesale.

"Whole batches of German pilots training at Nivelle in Belgium," says a British official statement, "secreted stores of petrol and flew across the Dutch frontier, where they were surrounded and interned."

"The reasons for these desertions, it is learned, are that wastage among German aviators has forced the army authorities to coerce recruits; that the coerced recruits find the 'intensive training' intolerable and that training accidents abound."

MRS. J. F. PARRISH

At Sixty-Nine Is Doing Her Bit

"I just came in to tell you that since taking your great and wonderful remedy, Vitalitas, I now feel that I can jump a rail fence." Thus spoke Mrs. Parrish of 82 Piedmont street, Worcester. Speaking about Vitalitas, Mrs. Parrish said: "Yes, I want to tell the world about this great remedy. I feel it my duty to tell others that they may benefit by my experience. I took it for rheumatism, and it certainly did the work in fine shape." Continuing, Mrs. Parrish said: "About 8 years ago I was in a train wreck and I got pretty well smashed up, and ever since I have been suffering from rheumatism, forcing me to stay in the house most of the time, and when I could go out I was forced to use a stick to enable me to get along. I tried everything that any one told me to try, but could never notice any results until I started the Vitalitas treatment. Now I haven't a pain of any kind and I go about without the use of a cane, and my strength is fully 100 per cent. greater than it was before the use of Vitalitas." Mr. Dows, the Lowell druggist, says: "This certainly should be convincing proof as to the merits of Vitalitas. We claim that there isn't a remedy on the market that will do what Vitalitas will for rheumatism, indigestion, stomach, kidney and liver ills. Not a patent medicine, no alcohol or habit-forming drugs in Vitalitas. It is a natural product."—Dows' Drug Store, Merrimack Square.—Adv.

Sinking of Canadian Hospital Ship Called an Unspeaking Outrage

Bonar Law Says "The Wild Beast is at Large"—Maj. Lyon Talks

LONDON, July 3.—A thorough search of the waters in the vicinity of the spot where the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle was sunk by a German submarine has resulted in no further survivors being found. An official statement issued by the admiralty says it may be assumed that only 24 out of the 253 persons on board were saved.

The admiralty statement says: "The area between the spot where the Llandovery Castle was sunk and the southwest Irish coast has been thoroughly searched by two groups of his majesty's ships in addition to the destroyer Lyster. Only a little wreckage and one empty boat were found. It may be assumed that there are no more survivors from the Llandovery Castle."

Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking in the house of commons yesterday, said that one would have thought that nothing new as regards German brutality could have happened, but the sinking of the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle was an unspeakable outrage. Nothing could be gained, he added, by talking about this last example of frightfulness.

"The wild beast is at large," said Mr. Bonar Law. "There is no use arguing or reasoning about it. The only thing to do is to destroy it. That is the duty and it is up to all the allies to set their teeth until that end is achieved."

Major Lyon's Statement
Major T. Lyon of the Canadian Medical Corps, who suffered such severe treatment when he was taken aboard the German submarine, has been brought to a hospital in London.

"I dread to think what would have happened to an American flying officer had he been in my shoes," said Maj. Lyon yesterday. He then related to the Associated Press his experiences with the Germans.

"The Germans," he said, "seemed obsessed with the idea that American aviators were aboard, and it took us some time to convince them otherwise. Almost the first words they used when approaching our lifeboat were: 'Where is the flying officer?' This was when the German commander ordered us to come alongside quickly and we explained that the slight delay in the darkness was due to an endeavor to rescue a man in the water. Then it was that the German commander threatened us, again asking: 'Where are those Americans?' and then shot over our heads with his revolver, and made more threats."

"Captain Sylvester (master of the hospital ship) went aboard the submarine first, remaining perhaps five or 10 minutes. Then they came after me. The second officer of the submarine grabbed me by the hand and I was jerked aboard, a bone in my foot being broken."

"I ascertained afterwards that the Germans had questioned Sylvester as to whether a wireless message had been despatched asking for assistance and about American flying officers. I was taken to the conning tower and kept standing about three minutes while I was interrogated by the German commander regarding my being a medical officer. I saw eight or ten men while aboard. All of them spoke English. Finally they sent me back to the lifeboat, my story having tallied with Sylvester's."

"This seemed to surprise the Germans, as they pretended to be sure that aviators were aboard. I have my doubts about this belief being genuine, my idea being that the Germans simply used this as a pretext for the torpedoing of the Llandovery Castle."

"The submarine," continued Major Lyon, "a little later made for us, missing our stern by two feet. I believe the Germans tried to ram us."

SALE OF OLD GOLD, SILVER AND PLATINUM

City Solicitor William D. Regan has forwarded the following opinion to the license commission in regard to applications for licenses to buy and sell old gold, silver and platinum, etc.: July 1, 1918.

To the License Commission, Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen: Acknowledging yours of the 27th in the matter of applications for licenses to buy and sell old gold, silver and platinum, second-hand watches, precious stones and jewelry, I wish to say that chapter 102, section 29 of the revised laws and acts in amendment thereto, provide for the licensing of dealers and keepers of shops for the purchase, sale or barter of junk, old metals, or second-hand articles. This statute primarily was enacted with the object of limiting the dealings in this class of commodities to certain channels, so that in the event of theft and attempt at disposal, they could readily be traced and restored to the lawful owner.

Your board is the one constituted to issue licenses for the dealings in this class of commodities, and it seems to me that you have the right to license applicants for the sale of old gold, silver and platinum, second-hand watches, precious stones and jewelry, though I have some doubt whether or not your board has the authority to grant in the same licenses for dealing in old metals, a license to buy and sell second-hand articles, and believe the better way of handling the matter would be to issue a license for the barter, sale and exchange of old gold, silver and platinum, and another license to deal in second-hand articles, limiting such latter license to the articles particularly listed in the application for license.

In answer to your query: "What is meant by the words 'second hand articles'?" I beg to say that from the reading of the statute there apparently exists no ambiguity, and this phrase has no technical or peculiar meaning, but in general refers to articles that have been before sold, or used, once or many times.

While this subject is fresh, I desire to call to your attention, act of 1910, chapter 554, which provides that no person licensed as a junk dealer shall under such license or on the licensed premises, purchase, barter, sell or offer for sale any new, unused or unworn article or material, and, of course, if an applicant for a license to deal in second-hand articles is ostensibly attempting to conduct a junk business under such a license, he is prohibited under the provisions of such act to deal in any new or unused merchandise.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM D. REGAN,
City Solicitor.

SALE OF OLD GOLD, SILVER AND PLATINUM

Were Recovered from the Ruins of Munition Plant Wrecked by Explosion

80 Injured, Many Fatally—Ten Buildings Destroyed—Damage Over $1,000,000

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 3.—Sixty-two bodies had been recovered shortly before noon today, from the ruins of the buildings of the Semet-Solway plant, destroyed last night by fire and explosions of T.N.T.

The injured numbered at least 80, most of whom are expected to die.

Property Damage $1,000,000

Fully half of the great munitions plant was wiped out by the fire and explosions which followed. Ten buildings were destroyed and the property damage will exceed $1,000,000.

Shook Entire City

The explosion, which occurred at 9 o'clock, shook the entire city. Within a mile or more of Split Rock, scores rushed from their homes to get out of the danger zone. Many pushed wheelbarrows containing children and household goods. A fire preceded the explosion by 45 minutes or more.

Six Policemen Killed

The bodies of six policemen were found in the ruins.

The small homes of workmen about the hillside and in the valley were wrecked. Many women in these houses had narrow escapes. They rushed out in panic, some with children in their arms. The company kitchen, where women were employed, was damaged, but it was said all escaped.

Fire Warded Workmen

According to E. L. Pierce, vice president of the company, the fire started in one of the towers of a T.N.T. plant. The cause has not been ascertained. The fire gave warning so that workmen were able to escape and most of those killed or injured were fighting the fire.

Report Fire Set By Spies Unconfirmed

Three T.N.T. plants, one nitric acid plant, the office, laboratory and a boiler house were destroyed. According to Mr. Pierce, men had the fire under control but lost the water and this permitted the spread of the flames.

There is no confirmation of reports that the fire was started by German spies.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, A.O.E., held their regular meeting last evening in the Irberrian hall. Considerable business was transacted. A report was read from the county board meeting in Waltham. The $500 Liberty bond was received back from Washington and placed in the hands of the treasurer.

DOCTORS GIVE REASONS FOR SPRING FEVER

Explain Its Real Meaning

"The name Spring Fever," said a well known physician in conversation the other day, "is a misnomer, and is largely a figure of speech used to describe the peculiar lassitude that so many people complain of at the expiration of our winter months. It is a physiological condition well known to the medical profession, and is not a fever at all, but a general letting down of nature's forces, particularly the nervous centers, due to the deficiency of iron and phosphorous both of which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of bodily vigor."

"Of course," he continued, "the excessive meat eating, the loss of green vegetables and of oxygen, of which there is so little in the average heated house, all play their part. The result is that nature is calling for an increased output of the vital forces during the winter months, and this demand means more phosphorous and iron. For it is these two potent remedies combined, which are nature's armament in her defensive warfare. With the advent of warm weather, the pores act more freely and the heart slows up and that peculiar lassitude which we call Spring Fever is manifested."

"And the remedy, Doctor?" an interested listener asked. "Why my dear sir, the remedy for these starved nerve and blood centers is Phosphated Iron. But there is no reason why we should ever reach this point, if we would, from time to time, take that well known remedy, Phosphated Iron, and so maintain the physiological balance, as shown by our color, our sense of well being, push and activity, all of which are necessary to make life worth while."

And the Doctor was right. Special Notice—To insure Doctors and their patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron, we have put in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to substitute tablets or pills. Insist on capsules. Fred Howard, Lowell Pharmacy and leading druggists everywhere.

FIX COPPER PRICE

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The price of copper has been fixed at 26 cents per pound, an advance of 2½ cents over the former price, the war industries board last night announced. The new price, which is subject to the approval of President Wilson, went into effect today and will continue until Aug. 15.

Let them wear their prettiest things every day

"Hel-en!" Your mother would call out of the window, "don't romp like that in your good dress. Go sit on the porch like a little lady."

You would glance scornfully at your best frock. How hard to give up your dear games just because you had on that homely thing!

Nowadays, even for play, children wear things that make them look and feel like fairies—sweaters and frocks of light pinks, blues and tans—even white. They can be cleaned easily and without harm to the fabric.

Lux has made the rubbing of soap on to fine garments a thing of the past.

The delicate flakes melt on in the hot water. You toss Louise's little dresses, Freddy's little sweater into the rich suds—plop them up and down and the dirt just melts away. It is no trouble, no strain on delicate fabrics. If water alone won't injure them, Lux won't.

Get your package of Lux today at your grocer's, druggist's, or department store—Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

To wash fine white fabrics

Use a tablespoonful of Lux to every gallon of water. Dissolve in very hot water and whisk into a thick lather. Let the sheer little white dresses and petticoats soak for a few minutes. Then dip them through the creamy lather again and again. Do not rub. Press the suds against and again through very soiled spots. Rinse in three waters, the same temperature as the water in which you washed them. Dry in the sun.

Fine colored fabrics—Wash as above but in lukewarm suds, and do not soak. Dry in the shade.

Even in hard water, Lux makes wonderful suds

A TENDENCY TO ANEMIA MAY BE INHERITED

A tendency to thin blood, or anemia, may be hereditary. In fact, it often runs in families and in such cases it should be combated, as soon as a symptom shows, by the use of a reliable blood-making tonic.

Mrs. Elsie Monastess, 2 Porter street, Haverhill, Mass., and her seventeen-year-old daughter, both used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the treatment of anemia and their experience follows:

"I had suffered with anemia or lack of blood from my girlhood," says Mrs. Monastess. "I was losing my strength, was run down, and had terrible headaches. I took bitter tonics and other medicines, but they did not seem to help me. I was discouraged, my appetite was poor and what I did eat would not stay on my stomach."

"I had heard of people who were benefited by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. I noticed improvement after I had taken three boxes. My appetite became better and I felt stronger in every way."

"My daughter, Antoinette, became run down about three years ago and seemed to have no ambition. She was colorless and her limbs ached continually. She had no appetite and her face broke out with pimples. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills helped her at once, and she began to eat better. Her color came back, and the pains in her limbs disappeared."

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box. Write to Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free book on the blood.—Adv.

where 32 ocean-going merchant vessels and 14 destroyers are to take the water on the greatest launching day in the history of the world.

The total tonnage of this portion of the bridge of ships is 465,186, exclusive of the warships.

Thus in one day the total ship production in the United States in June, 280,400 deadweight tons, will be far exceeded and the total production for the year brought to more than 1,549,356 tons.

The June production, which is at the rate of 3,364,500 tons a year, is a new record for the United States and is the greatest output of ocean-going tonnage ever completed in any one month by any nation.

It comes within 15,000 tons of the world's record for shipbuilding made by the British shipyards in May, but which included all classes of vessels.

Of the vessels to be launched tomorrow 41 are of steel and 52 wooden. Five are British products, two were built in New Hampshire and one in Connecticut. In eastern yards 12 steel and 12 wooden ships have been turned out. On the Pacific coast, there will be 17 steel and 26 wooden launchings, and in the Gulf yards, 14 wooden and one steel "splashes." Besides these, there are 11 steel ships for the Great Lakes.

The second largest steel ship constructed at eastern yards is the Sagadahoc, a cargo vessel of 5500 tons, by the Texas company of Bath, Me. Cumberland Shipbuilding company of Portland, Me., expects to launch the Cumberland and Falmouth; the Portland Ship company will christen the Okeas; the Kelly-Spear company of Bath, Me., has the Columbine ready; and L. T. Shattuck, Inc., Portsmouth, N. H., intends to wet the Croton and Crusoe. The last six named boats are wooden and 3500 tons each.

At Gloucester, Penn., yards of the Pennsylvania Shipbuilding company, the largest craft will slip from the ways. It is the William Penn, a 12,500 ton steel cargo carrier. Challenger, an 11,000 ton steel vessel, will hit the water at Alameda, Calif., and San Francisco is preparing to observe the launching of the Independence, Victorious and Defiance, each 11,800 tonnage, steel craft.

Beat Year's Record in One Day

The total tonnage under the American flag two years ago was 2,412,381, a large part of which was not of deep sea type. Independence day's launchings will exceed by 74,500 tons the total ship product of the United States for 1901, the previous record year. The total steel tonnage to be launched is 279,986, the wooden, 158,900.

Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the emergency fleet corporation, will attend the triple launching at San Francisco. Early in the year, it was thought that, if the shipyards could be speeded up so that a score of vessels could be launched on the country's natal day, there would be good reason to feel satisfied. Since Schwab took hold with practically unlimited powers, there has been a marked quickening of the whole system.

Among the 14 destroyers to slip into the water will be one from the Fore River Shipbuilding company's docks.

Saturday, July 6, is "Quarter Day" at the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

Row, He Says

"Somehow or other you folks in Lowell must root your labor in your soil and if you do that, you're going to get a lot of good people. That's your job."

"There has never been a raise in wages secured by a row that was ever more than a minimum raise."

These were some of the salient, home-driven points that a Lowell audience perhaps could have heard at no more opportune time than last evening when Guy D. Gold, formerly special agent of the department of labor, and one of the best versed labor men in the country, spoke on "Labor Behind the War" in high school hall before a fair-sized and representative audience.

The existence of a textile strike in this city seemed to add more than usual significance to the meeting, and while Mr. Gold did not attempt to deal openly with local issues, nevertheless, those who followed him closely could readily see the application of many of his statements to local conditions. He spoke optimistically of labor's part in the war, but did not seek to aggrandize it. He said that labor had not done everything that it might have done to back up the government, but that it was not unique in this respect. None of us, he declared, has done everything that he might have done.

Hugh J. Molloy, chairman of the local forum committee, was the presiding officer, and members of the committee were seated on the platform. Following his address proper, Mr. Gold answered a number of questions propounded by members of the audience. It was announced that John W. Ross of Buffalo, N. Y., would be the speaker at the next meeting to be held Tuesday evening, July 9, at 8 o'clock. His topic will be: "The Vitalization of Civic Life."

Mr. Gold's Address
Mr. Gold spoke in substance as follows:

"From the standpoint of the United States government the labor voice of the United States, whether you agree with it or not, is its organized voice; and the particular form of organized voice is the American Federation of Labor. That being the case we must expect, for the period of this war, that every member of the labor movement, of organized labor, with vastly increased power, but with tremendously increased responsibility. For you must remember that three and a half million men and women must speak for 23 million workers in the United States. That great responsibility has sobered the organized labor men considerably. 'Is the American working man behind the war?' He is not so far behind that he will never see the war and he is not so close as he might be; but he is getting closer. If you were to ask if the ministers of the country are behind the war, they would say that some of them are pretty far behind it, but there are others who are so close that they are getting killed."

"The government has asked labor to supply an army adequate for the winning of this war. The great body of the army must be furnished by labor simply because there are no other groups of men who can furnish them. Proportionately, every group has done magnificently; but the great bulk of the men that will have to do the actual killing and being killed, will have to come out of the ranks of labor. This war is going to be won, not by the textile mills in Lowell, but by the flesh and blood men of France. Proportionately, there are more boys to be furnished out of labor, because labor has more boys. It is merely a matter of mathematics. Now, will labor do this, or will it lie down on the job? Looking over the lists today, I am satisfied that labor has willingly furnished her quota, up to today. It is going to be hard to furnish an army of ten million men, which we shall probably have to furnish before we are through, but I believe we have enough evidence that labor will produce that army. And we are making pretty good soldiers out of the material, judging by reports from the front. I believe that as near as we can see into the future, labor is going to furnish blood for this war, and is going to stand leadership that she would not stand in business."

Labor Has Not Produced

"Secondly, labor is asked to produce the necessary war supplies, food and material to win the war. Will she do it? Up to date she has not. Labor has not produced what she could produce; but I do not see anyone that has done everything that they could have done. We are just getting into our stride. Why have we not done it right up, right away? Is it because she is not patriotic? Is it because she is not behind the war? Is it because she is afraid? I am not sure but it is because she is afraid that if she sets a standard that is so abnormal, we shall not forget it after the war is over."

over. I know the kind of men who, if a fellow in a spasm of work should roll more steel than usual, that rate of wages would not be kept up. I know of mills that have done that thing seven times inside of one year. They have changed the piece price in order that they would earn only about so much. That thing has been so common in the United States that the laboring man has been afraid to do a good day's work."

"Now along comes the war, and they are expected to show their metal. The question is, is it a dangerous thing to do? I say that labor ought to have more confidence in the rest of us. I deem that labor is to be criticized for not having produced her maximum, but I want to justify labor, on the ground that even the United States government has not always been a fair employer on that matter, and that standards of piece fixing based upon that kind of production were taken advantage of by producers at the beginning of this war. I do not justify the failure to measure up to all that is in us when the government needs all that is in us, but I do feel that labor has some justification in holding up a little, until she has some assurance that she is going to be treated fairly."

Fluidity of Labor

"But there is one thing that labor cannot excuse, can only explain. That is the tremendous fluidity of labor. There has not been time in the United States since the Civil war when we have been so prosperous that labor was not afraid to get up and move. Men have been so afraid of not having a job that Billy Sunday's hell did not have such terror for the working man as the loss of a job. They have lived in mining communities on pitiable wages, and they could not get away if they wanted to. Then the war came along, and there seemed to be more jobs than there were men. And last winter, when you were crying for coal—and you are going to cry a great deal harder for it this winter—the miners were leaving the rotten mining towns and going into better towns, where there were Y.M.C.A. centres and Knights of Columbus halls, and such things. The whole working population got on the move. It was a good thing, only they will settle down now. The government is trying hard, but I think that every community will have to do its part. You folks here in Lowell have got to root a good many of these people. It is worth doing. You are going to get a lot of good folks, when you get them rooted. But now, fluidity of labor ought to cease."

"Then we have asked labor to do all this war work as cheaply as possible. Labor has not done it, but I am not so sure but she had done it as cheaply as she ought to have done it. We have no business in invest in luxuries, even in art galleries, out of the profits of war. My conviction is that any man who can afford to start an art gallery out of the profit made out of this war is a traitor to the United States. I use art galleries as an illustration only. The same thing applies to the working man. The principle is that he must have so much excess that he can enjoy things that he never was able to enjoy before. But when that is said and done, I believe labor has kept the cost down as low as we could expect to keep it down."

A Great Responsibility

"We are asking one other thing of labor. Can we trust labor with this last, most critical of all responsibilities, that we shall come through this war without any loss in our civic and social civilization? Or shall we find ourselves the victims of a spirit of social civilization? The leadership of the community that has usually safeguarded these things, is in the service of the government. It is not creating the local environment. That is what I am troubled about. Let as I go over the situation with the labor leaders of the country, I believe that the great body of American working people is so ultra-conservative that it will take more than this war to make unsafe, except in certain spots, our social fabric. I believe the laboring man is not seeking to undermine the fundamental institutions of our American democracy. I am even prepared to say that there have been more crimes committed against the I.W.W. than by the I.W.W. Employers create the I.W.W. I am convinced that no great body of men in this country become extremely radical to the point of destruction of institutions, unless somebody has taught them the lessons of that kind of destruction. I am not supporting their economic theories or making any plea for them, but I want to say that the United States has not found a single conviction, that the members of the I.W.W. have been German propagandists. They may be. I do not say whether they are or not. But that is the government's record."

"American labor is keeping step with the rest of us in this war. Some of it is behind the line, some may be a little bit ahead. But this is the worst thing that can be said about American labor—and about all of us for that matter—that we are at a pretty slow pace. Our allies have a right to expect that we will save them. We shall be pickers if we do not. I expect that when we get into the quickstep, we shall do it."

Million "Over"

public a letter from Secretary Baker disclosing a record of achievement which the president said "must cause universal satisfaction" and which "will give additional zest to our national consideration of the Fourth of July."

Substantially 20 divisions are now in France ready to meet whatever move the German staff has in preparation. Some of these divisions already have been formed into the first field army under Maj. Gen. Liggett, others are holding trench sectors at important points along the battle line and still others have been broken up and brigaded with French and British troops, and so, when the German thrust comes, the Americans will be called upon to play no small part in meeting it.

All Adequately Equipped

Secretary Baker wrote the president that the supplies and equipment in France for the million men who have gone is shown by latest reports to be adequate and added that the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supplies."

The president's statement, with the letter from Secretary Baker and his reply, follow:

"I have today received the following letter from the secretary of war, which seems to me to contain information which will be satisfactory to the country, that its publication will be welcomed and will give additional zest to our national celebration of the Fourth of July:

"Washington, July 1, 1918.

"My Dear Mr. President, Department,

"More than one million American soldiers have sailed from the ports in this country to participate in the war in France. In reporting this fact to you I feel that you will be interested in a few data showing the progress of our overseas military effort."

"The first ship carrying military personnel was the USS Oregon, leaving on board base hospital No. 4 and members of the reserve nurses corps."

"Gen. Pershing and his staff sailed on the morning of June 12, 1917, to and including June 1, 1918, are as follows:

1917—May, 1718; June, 12,261; July, 12,958; August, 18,622; September, 23,523; October, 38,359; November, 23,017; December, 48,840.

1918—January, 46,776; February, 48,027; March, 85,511; April, 117,212; May, 244,700; June, 376,572.

"Marines, 14,644.

"Aggregation, 1,019,115.

"The total number of troops returning from abroad, and of these, by reason of the superbly efficient protection which the navy has given our transport system, only 291 have been lost."

"The supplies and equipment in France for all troops sent is, by our latest reports, adequate and the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supply."

"Respectfully yours,

"NEWTON D. BAKER."

"To which I replied:

"Washington, July 2, 1918.

"My Dear Mr. Secretary,

"Your letter of July first contains a very significant piece of news and an equally significant report of the forwarding of troops during the past year to the other side of the ocean."

"I am glad to hear that the country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supply."

"Respectfully yours,

"NEWTON D. BAKER."

"Secretary of War."

The accelerated troop movement to France has been designed to meet the emergency created by the German effort to achieve victory before America's man-power could exert its full force. How long the present rate of transportation will be maintained depends upon developments in France and the length of time the surplus ship tonnage furnished by Great Britain can be employed for this work."

In this connection, Secretary Baker said last night that he disapproved of speculation as to the future records in troop movements, declaring that he did not desire to have "past performance made the basis of speculation for the future."

Plans to Clothe 4,000,000

As reserves for the million and more men now in France, more than another million are now in training in the United States. It has been officially announced that 3,000,000 American soldiers will be under arms by the end of this month, while information recently furnished to Congress by Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, acting quartermaster general, disclosed that his department is planning to clothe 4,000,000 men on or about Jan. 1.

Gen. Crowder recently told the senate military committee that Class 1 registrants would be exhausted by the first of the year, and he added the significant statement that "every one expected heavy calls to be made during the first six months of next year."

In discussing the heavy movement of troops in the last three months, Mr. Baker said it was worthy of mention "that the month in which German submarines were operating off our coast was the month in which we made the record number of shipments."

In this connection it was recalled that not a single American transport carrying troops to Europe had been sunk by German submarines, the only two destroyed having been attacked when returning home without the protection of American destroyers and other naval craft. Two British vessels carrying American soldiers have been torpedoed and a third was sunk last month when returning to this country without convoy."

Secretary Baker's letter reveals for the first time the number of marines sent to France. They form only about half of a division, but they have been giving a splendid account of themselves since they helped to stem the German thrust for Paris, and reports today from France show that they again battered through the German trenches and then resisted furious counter assaults."

2,500,000 in Six Months

PARIS, July 3.—(Havas Agency) In six months there will be 2,500,000 American troops on the French front, Andre Tardieu, head of the general commission for Franco-American war matters, has declared to the editor of the Petit Journal.

LOWELL REPRESENTED BY MR. CARMICHAEL AT MEETING OF COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Mrs. James H. Carmichael represented the Lowell war savings stamp committee at a meeting of committee chairmen from all over the state held yesterday afternoon in Cambridge. Mrs. Carmichael reported a total of 20,000 war stamp pledges from Lowell people secured during the drive conducted in the month of June. Lowell's quota was 20,000, but it was later realized that this was an over-estimate for this city and this same condition was found to be true from various other reports made at yesterday's meeting.

Pledges are still coming in at the war work headquarters and it is probable that the 21,000 mark will be reached before the last one is in. Estimate for this city and this same condition was found to be true from various other reports made at yesterday's meeting.

This week is "Quarter Week" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

ANNUAL LAWN PARTY OF SACRED HEART PARISH

Where are you going on the Fourth? This old-time question has been asked throughout the city during the past few days, and the popular reply has been, "To the Sacred Heart parish field day, of course."

"The true that all roads will lead to-morrow afternoon to the Sacred Heart parochial grounds, where from noon till midnight there will be an abundance of entertainment, and enjoyment galore for the parishioners, and their hosts of friends, relatives, neighbors, well-wishers and admirers."

The announcement of a baby contest as a feature of this mammoth parochial reunion, has been enthusiastically received, and is arousing widespread interest. The contest will follow closely the features of the Better Baby campaign held here recently, and the judges selected for the occasion are ladies under whose supervision the recent Better Baby campaign was so successfully conducted. The first baby contest is open to babies under one year old and the second to babies over one and under two years of age. Three prizes will be awarded in each contest. The first prize will be awarded to the "hardest baby," second prize to the "smallest baby" and the third prize will go to the "best-natured baby." The committee desires it understood that this contest is not confined to babies of the Sacred Heart parish, and so aspirants for the honors are invited from all parts of the city. No entries, however, will be received later than 2 o'clock on tomorrow afternoon, as the contest will be decided promptly at 3 p. m.

In addition to the thousand and one attractions to be found along the delightful midway an open air entertainment of more than passing interest will lend entertainment throughout the afternoon.

An excellent list of athletic events under the supervision of a capable sporting committee will be an enjoyable feature of the day's program. The various features of entertainment to be presented throughout the afternoon are, however, merely accessory to the real feature of the day.

Promptly at 5 p. m. a chorus of over one hundred trained voices under the direction of John J. Mitchell, the well-known musical director, will be heard in patriotic selections, thus opening the grand patriotic program which is really the main feature of the day's celebration.

Hon. John J. Mitchell, United States marshal, will be the orator of the occasion. Mr. Mitchell is a speaker of remarkable ability and his address will be a rare treat is undoubtedly.

NAMES OF LOWELL MEN
IN 101ST REGIMENT

Mayor Perry D. Thompson has received a request from the Associate members of the 101st United States Infantry, an organization which has been formed at the request of the commanding officer, Colonel Edward L. Logan, to care for the needs of the men of that unit who are now in France.

The letter requests a copy of the honor roll containing the names of the men from Lowell who are in the 101st regiment. His Honor has turned the letter over to Mr. Otto Hockmeyer of the war work headquarters with the request that he furnish the information desired, if possible.

In turn, Mr. Hockmeyer requests that the Lowell people who have relatives or friends in Co. M of the 101st, or any other company of that regiment, send in the name of the soldier, his company and their own name to war work headquarters, 119 Merrimack street, recently.

The letter received by Mayor Thompson reads as follows:

June 27, 1918.
Chairman, Public Safety Committee, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:—As a number of men from your community are with the 101st Infantry, U.S.A., which is at present in France, we feel sure that you would be interested to know that an organization has been formed, at the request of the commanding officer, Colonel Edward L. Logan, to care for the needs of the men which to date have developed through their experience in the front line trenches.

The government is doing a wonderful piece of work—how wonderful few of us on this side fully appreciate. But there are many small things which the physical comfort of our boys demands that an organization such as we have formed can supply and thereby add in no small measure the work of the government.

There is also another view which we will be called upon to face and we feel that now is the opportune moment to prepare our foundation, and that it is the care and responsibility of our convalescent wounded and also the question of suitable employment of these men who are discharged from service as further incapacitated.

Knowing that your gallantly volunteered when the first call came we feel sure that you will be glad to co-operate in all our efforts.

It is with pleasure we announce the opening of our permanent headquarters and workrooms on July 1st at Rooms 356 to 359 inclusive, the old building, 50 Boylston street, Boston.

The 101st regiment is represented in over 45 communities and we are glad to respond to the request we are making that they will support this work to its fullest extent.

It is with pleasure we announce the opening of our permanent headquarters and workrooms on July 1st at Rooms 356 to 359 inclusive, the old building, 50 Boylston street, Boston.

Very sincerely yours,
JAMES J. PHELAN, President.

scious since that time. The stroke affected the entire left side.

He had been a member of the United States senate since 1894. His term would have expired March 3, 1919.

Benjamin Ryan Tillman was one of the most extraordinary members of the United States senate, in which body he served continuously for twenty-four years. During the latter part of his service he was chairman of the naval affairs committee of the senate and his work in that position, after the United States entered the great war, was considered by his colleagues to be of great value.

As a senator, Mr. Tillman quickly won a wide reputation through the country for plainness and bluntness of speech which, combined with his apparent rough exterior and somewhat careless manner of dress, made him a unique figure in congress. No one attracted more attention when he rose to speak in the senate. His language was always dramatic and he called things by their simplest names. He often referred to himself as the "corn-field lawyer," but it was believed he did so only for the purpose of showing how little some of the lawyers knew on some of the intricate questions where common sense was more desirable than legal technicalities.

Within a month after he took his seat in the senate, following his first election to that body in 1894, Senator Tillman won his picturesque nickname of "Pitchfork Ben," a characterization which he did not resent. In a speech, he shattered all the traditions of the senators by taking the floor so soon after becoming a member, and further indicated his disregard of these senatorial usages by announcing himself to be "a farmer, pure and simple, with no collateral occupation," and declaring his intention of holding up some of the public questions on his pitchfork. While the impression made upon some of his colleagues was not altogether favorable, his methods convinced them that he was a vigorous fighter and a personality to be reckoned with so long as South Carolina should continue to send him to the senate. His intimate knowledge of the best in literature showed that he was not the uncultured man the senators had pictured him, despite the brusque manner and out-spoken ways. Mr. Tillman's career in the senate was full of interesting episodes, prominent among which was his exchange of blows with his colleague, Senator McLaughlin, over an incident which occurred in the executive session, which cost him an invitation by President Roosevelt to meet Prince Henry of Battenberg at a White House dinner. Other incidents were a sharp conflict with Colonel Roosevelt, partly growing out of a dispute over the disposition of Southern Pacific railroad lands in Oregon; and Senator Tillman's persistent and ultimately successful fight against President Roosevelt's appointment of Dr. Crum, a negro, as collector of the port of Charleston.

Although of advanced age, Senator Tillman gave evidences of his ability to retain his office by engaging in a fiery political contest with former Governor Bleasie, a candidate against him in the senatorial primaries of 1918. The senator had previously announced his intention to retire from politics, but he reconsidered that determination in the belief that his intimate knowledge of naval affairs would be of service to the country in time of war.

Born in Edgefield county, South Carolina, August 11, 1847, Mr. Tillman received an academic education, enlisted in the Confederate army in 1864, but saw no military service owing to the fact that he lost the sight of his left eye from a severe illness soon after he enlisted. In 1868 he married Sallie Starke.

He was elected governor of South Carolina in 1890 and again in 1892. His service in that state included the founding of the Clemson Agricultural and Mechanical college at Fort Hill, for boys, and the Winthrop Normal and Industrial college at Rock Hill, for girls. He was author of the famous dispensary system for selling liquor under the control of the state.

A life long democrat, he participated in the South Carolina constitutional convention which, in 1895, made education a qualification of suffrage. He was a central figure in the democratic national convention, particularly in those of 1900 and 1904. He served for years as member of the democratic national committee.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Note:—Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come later.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"A Pair of Sixes," the super-comedy production now at the B. F. Keith theatre, will please you. It is good all the way through—the long wave of laughter from start to finish. Just the thing needed nowadays, and it never fails to carry an audience with it. Taylor Holmes in the part of the patent medicine manufacturer who became a butler is good every minute of the time, and Maude Eburne as "Coddles," the slavey, is quite in a class by herself. The story glides along at a splendid clip, and the finish is as unexpected as it is funny. So, don't miss "A Pair of Sixes" for it is one of the best comedy films before the public. Another good picture on this same bill is "The Red Haired Cupid," with Roy Stewart in the title part. It is a lively western picture, with comedy spots that are splendid. The Hearst-Pathe pictures are of compelling interest, as usual. Change of bill tomorrow.

THE STRAND

John J. Dalton, the well known vocalist, will be one of the soloists at The Strand tonight. His numbers will be the added feature in connection with the regular bill, and should contribute to the program very materially. Miss Margaret McDonough, the regular "Two Girls" girl, will also be heard. "The Only Road," and Barbara Castle and Irene Cummings in "The Heart of a Girl." The Mutt and Jeff comedy, with the usual Payne Weekly will also be shown. Don't miss the "Night Before" show. It's worth while. For the last three days of the week, commencing with matinee on Thursday, Mabel Norton will appear in "The Venus Model," a story of how a bathing suit and a pretty girl won a fortune. Tom Hays, the master cowboy and big star, will be seen in "Ace High," a big story of the Canadian northwest. Other features.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Have that midnight dance tonight, the night before the Glorious Fourth, at Lakeview park, then take one of the late cars, of which there will be plenty, for your tour of the midway on the South common. Arrangements have been made for plenty of cars for tonight, and Minor Boyles' orchestra and Barney Moran will be there till midnight for your pleasure. Tomorrow, dancing from 1 till 11.30 p. m., with the orchestra and on both days all other attractions going full tilt. Ride from your home.

GERMAN PATENTS
Would Revoke Licenses to Americans to Use Them

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Recommendation that congress speedily modify the Enemy Trading law by revoking the power now given the courts to terminate licenses granted Americans to use German patents was made yesterday to the Federal Trade Commission by C. H. McDonald, chief of the enemy trade division of the commission. He urged also that the commission should be empowered to fix royalty charges more definitely and conclusively than the law permits.

"These serious defects should be cured, to the end that the business licensed by the commission may rest on a firm foundation," Mr. McDonald said. "In view of the fact that most of the licenses are means to establish in the United States industries which heretofore have been monopolized unfairly by German and Austrian interests to the very great disadvantage of the American public."

"Every license issued by the commission has been granted, but for the life of the right under which it is granted, and this division is simply the question of how long it shall last. The royalty prescribed in the license be fixed with more definiteness. In some instances five per cent. of the gross sums received by the licensee is not a sufficiently high royalty to be reasonable and in other instances it is entirely too high."

"The other recipients were Sergeant Patrick Walsh, James A. Murphy and William Norton; Corporals Ernest Bierch and Henry J. Monrozeau, and Private Edward V. Armstrong."

ANNUAL VIOLIN RECITAL BY THE PUPILS OF MR. JULIUS WOESSNER

The pupils of Mr. Julius Woessner gave a very successful violin recital in Middlesex hall Monday evening. The pupils showed careful training in the solo numbers and good ensemble playing in the orchestral selections.

Mr. Woessner had the assistance of Miss Anna B. Roth, soprano, who led the audience with her rendition of "One Fleeting Hour," with a violin obligato played by Mr. Woessner, and the charming "Knitting Song." She was forced to sing an encore.

Mr. Charles Cottrell played the accompaniment for Mr. Woessner who played the Spanish dance in real Spanish style. The program:

Lord Rhonda Dead

few rallies and the bulletins from his bedside in the past few days had led out little hope for his recovery. Yesterday's announcement recorded that he had lost strength and that his heart showed signs of failing to respond to treatment.

Viscount Rhonda was the man who put England and most of the United Kingdom of Great Britain on rations and won the gratitude even of the people whose food supply he regulated. Before he achieved the task it was generally regarded as all but impossible.

Food was running short in the United Kingdom in June, 1917, when the Baron Rhonda was appointed food controller of Great Britain. The German-

LORD RHONDA

U-boats were sending ships to the bottom of the ocean and Great Britain was supporting a tremendous army in France. The civilians at home were beginning to feel the pinch. Long queues of men, women and children stood for hours at the food stores in scores of British cities and there was a loud grumble from the public. The man who as David A. Thomas had been managing director of the great Cambrian coal combine, apparently undertook his task with many misgivings. "I have a suspicion," he told his Welsh friends, "that Lloyd George conscripted me for this almost impossible job because he knew I had the hide of a rhinoceros."

"I am going there," he added, "as guardian and trustee of the consumer and particularly the poor consumer." He declared that he was determined to stop profiteering and speculation in food.

"If it is necessary to put the whole country on compulsory rations I will do it without compunction," he gave warning. Then followed a series of orders and regulations that a year or two before would have roused the Briton to wrath. The new food controller took over control of all the crops for 1917 and within a few months announced the formation of an inter-allied food council to purchase in the United States food supplies for Great Britain, France and Italy in co-operation with Herbert Hoover, the American food administrator. The purpose was to eliminate competition and stop speculative advances in the prices of food.

By fixing the prices, he put into effect a policy of controlling profits for food dealers from the producer down to the retailer.

Transportation in America was snowbound for weeks during the winter of 1917 and America failed to deliver to England the food she had promised. Rhonda met the crisis by fixing the amount of food to be served every person in hotels, restaurants and boarding-houses down to the minute fraction. It carried England over the crisis and resulted in his elevation to viscount.

But the new viscount seemed to have fallen a victim to over-devotion to his own theories. He had boasted that he was living on a far smaller ration than he had imposed upon the British public but in April, 1918, he suffered a physical collapse that was attributed to his short ration regime.

The queues had disappeared from the British food stores. Prices were established and, while stories of the sufferings of Germany and Austria leaked past the censors, the Briton smiled and boasted of what Rhonda had accomplished for him. There was food enough and each obtained his share; the coal king had won the fight and the applause of his countrymen.

Before undertaking that task, Rhonda had in 1915 organized the British munitions buying in the United States and Canada and put it on a business basis. Born at Adara, Wales, March 16, 1856, David A. Thomas was the son of a colliery owner. Succeeding to his father's business, he became head of the great Cambrian combine, which controlled many mines producing steam coal used by the British navy. He was elected to parliament from Cardiff and twice refused to be made a peer. Long before he began to figure in public life he was widely known in America as the "British Coal King." His favorite recreation was in farming. In 1882 he married Sybil Haig of Penrhon and they had one daughter.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Surely the war news in today's papers should thrill the hearts of all patriotic Americans with pride at the grand achievement of our war department in having landed 1,013,115 men in France without the loss of a single transport, despite the efforts of the German submarines to reach them. The total Americans under arms will be 3,000,000 by August 1. Not the most unreasonable of Secretary Baker's critics can deny that this is an astounding achievement for little over one year's work.

If all this has been accomplished in a single year, what will be the situation in another year or after two years more of equally strenuous work to win the war?

On a par with this is the events to take place tomorrow, when 107 ships are to be launched from American yards.

We are about to show the enemy that we will do in a few years what it took them forty to accomplish, and furthermore, we will show them that the armies sent out after this period of intensive training will wipe out what remains of the Teutonic armies.

We feel that this statement is fully justified by the great superiority shown by our American troops wherever they have come in contact with the enemy, and nowhere more effectively than in taking the town of Vaux and in resisting the furious efforts of the Germans to retrieve the ground lost.

Despite the many sad features inseparable from war, there is here the assurance of victory to come that will ultimately deliver the world from the menace of German militarism and autocracy, and extend the reign of justice and freedom to every people and every land upon the globe.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Suppose we, the people of these United States of America, should issue a new Declaration of Independence, not superseding but based upon the old, we feel it would run thus:

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for the people of a democratic, liberty-loving country to fight unto death for the principles they hold most dear, a decent respect for the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to wage a win-or-die war.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all nations, great and small, are entitled to their place in the sun; that all human beings are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, whether they live in Belgium, Serbia, France or travel upon the high seas in peaceful ships of commerce; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights those governments of the people, for the people and by the people, have banded together in one cause and with one purpose against that government and the slavish subjects of that government which seeks to overthrow liberty throughout the world and to crush democracy beneath the cruel heel of autocracy and might. For long and many years, this power of military might and inhuman greed threatened the peace of the world and the freedom of all peoples, but still we were patient and hoped that the light of justice and honor might break through the cloak of militarism into the hearts of the German people and that reason might come to the German government. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinced a design to reduce all other nations and peoples under absolute despotism, it became our right, it became our duty, to fight that ruler, that government, that people with all of our resources of men and money, food and bullets. The history of the present kaiser of Germany is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over all the peoples of the earth. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has committed outrageous crimes against American citizens upon the high seas.

He has wilfully and needlessly murdered American women and children.

He has tortured and slain prisoners of war.

He has violated every known law of war.

He has violated every international law which stood in his course of brutalized warfare.

He has murdered non-combatants, even including little babies.

He has made bonfires and heaps of ruins out of churches and hospitals.

He has sunk hospital ships.

He has made war upon Red Cross workers.

He has fomented plots against the United States while this country was at peace with Germany.

He has hired conspirators to destroy life and property in the United States and in every other country which resisted his power lust.

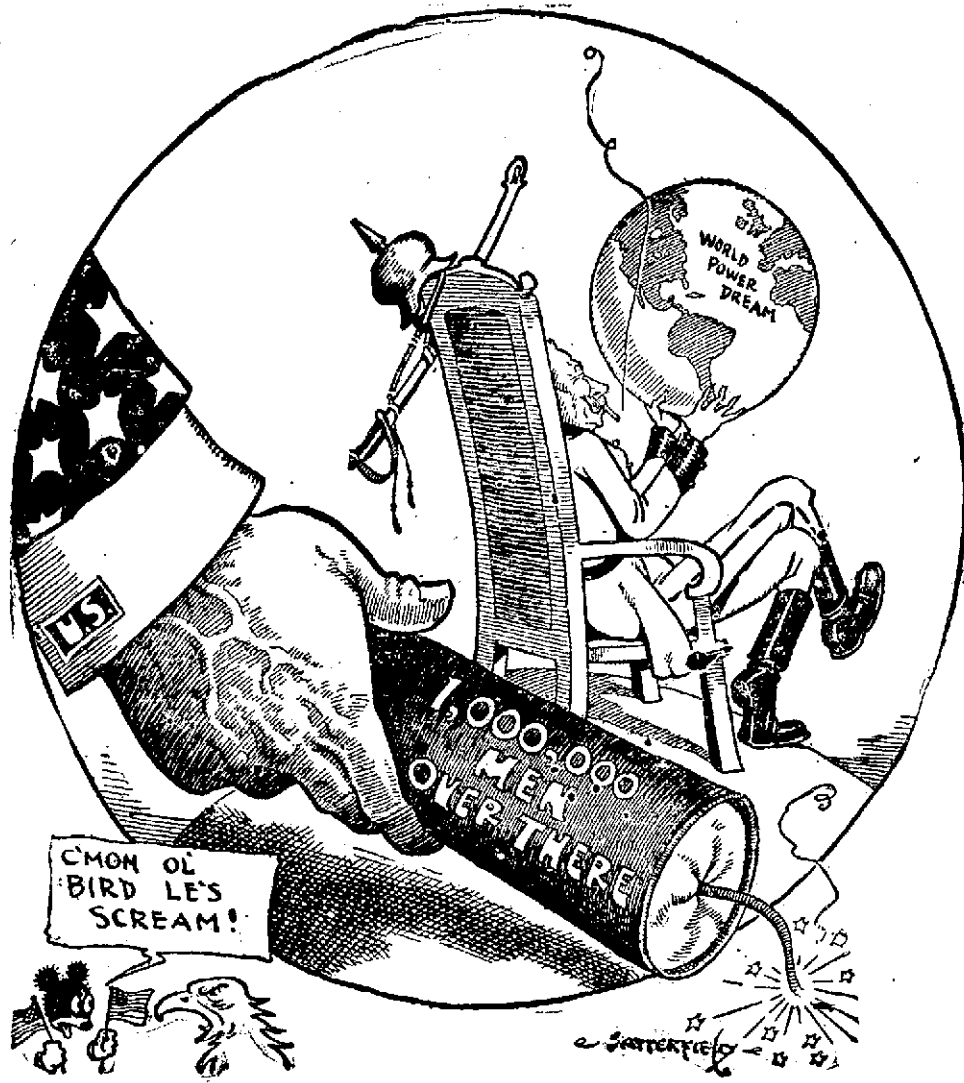

He has committed unforgivable crimes against the female population of conquered territory.

He has torn up treaties and scorned the rights of humanity.

He has plunged the world into this war, and by so doing, has become the arch-murderer of all time and the slayer of more human beings than all other murderers of all the world within the last several hundreds of years.

We, therefore, the people of the United States of America, on this Fourth of July, do solemnly publish and declare, that the United States of America will exert its last ounce of strength, will give its last man, will spend its last dollar, and if need be will fight to the last day of our existence as a free nation, to the end that our foe, the enemy of humanity, justice and liberty, may be defeated; that the final victory may be so complete, so decisive, that never again will German autocracy and militarism threaten the peace of the world nor the liberty of the inhabitants thereof. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, that we will loan of our savings for war savings stamps and Liberty loans, that we will give of our money for war taxes without complaint, that we will support with our dollars and our time Red Cross and all other war charities, that we will produce and conserve food as requested by the food administration, that we will not seek one penny of excess profits during the period of war, that we who are able, will go "over there" to the trenches of our allies, that we will utter no word which will interfere with our country's war aim, and that we will not fail to utter such words as will keep the people's fighting spirit staunch and true and firm.

This declaration, we are sure, would be signed by every one of the 110,000,000 people in this land as a true declaration of the principles and policies for which we stand in this war.

A SANE FOURTH

WOMAN FOR JUDGE

President Wilson in appointing a woman to the office of judge of the juvenile court in the District of Columbia has established a precedent that will be followed in some other cities. It will please the suffragists.

HENRY FORD'S HOSPITAL

Henry Ford is constructing a $3,000,000 hospital at Detroit, Mich., for the rehabilitation of American soldiers wounded in Europe. One would suppose that such a hospital would be of more service if near the coast. The journey from the Atlantic ports to Detroit would surely be a painful ordeal for a soldier suffering from wounds.

BAY STATE RAILWAY TRUSTEE

When Governor McCull selects the trustees to take charge of the affairs of the Bay State Street Railway, he should not forget the claims that the city of Lowell has to a place on that board. It was here in Lowell that the road had its beginning and here the company found its highest official, President Sullivan. We understand that there are two avowed candidates for the position of trustee on the board to be appointed under the recent act of the legislature. Both gentlemen are very acceptable so that should the governor select either of them, his action would doubtless meet public approval.

SEEN AND HEARD

Some people never mention their ancestors because they believe in letting bygones be bygones.

You should not get it into your head that it is a woman's sunny disposition that makes it warm for a man.

Factory Notes

Capable drawings by employees of the plant, a number of letters from soldiers "over there" and a few heart-to-heart talks by the editor are the salient features of the June number of "Factory Notes," the U. S. Cartridge Co. publication. Notes of the doings in various departments and a few poems that contain a lot of truth are other enjoyable features of the publication.

In the Days of Real Sport

"War gardening is just as good sport as golf or shooting," declares an enthusiast. "U-m, well, it requires as much skill and persistency to bug a patch of potatoes as to hag a dozen quail, and looking for the pepper plants in the weeds would be as good sport as looking for lost golf balls if cadets were employed to help."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Smiling Tolerance

"It's great fun for the young folks," remarked the man with a railroad cap

who was sweeping up around the station, "but it sure does make a mess."

What he was cleaning up was confetti, over-liberally showered by friends of newlyweds who had just started off on their honeymoon. But he wasn't surly about it. Getting married is the big adventure in most folks' lives and everybody has smiling tolerance for the fuss that is made over the blushing bride and the flustered groom as they are launched on the sea of matrimony.

Some Hooverizers

There's one family at the West Side that honestly thinks that it is entitled to a diploma from Mr. Hoover. His admonitions against waste have been taken to heart and mistress, maid and all hands have done their best to be economical as to food. That they have succeeded was borne in upon them the other day when the city garbage collector came around. There wasn't much in the can to reward him for his call and seeing the maid at the back door he inquired, "Doesn't anybody live here now?"

And it is just because of that natural question that the family is putting on airs.—Brookline Enterprise.

They're All Alike

The oleaginous fortune that gushes sometimes from the earth in parts of Oklahoma and other states had sprouted from the derrick in the back yard of John Adams, who had hitherto provided a sometimes meager living for himself and wife by doing odd jobs about town. The old couple surveyed their potential wealth. John turned and cast a disapproving eye over his partner's attire. "Now, Maggie," he said, "at last you can get you some decent clothes."

"I'll do nothing of the sort, John," was the reply. "I'll get some of the kind all the other women are wearing."—Judge.

Candid Dorothea

Dorothea's aunt was visiting with Dorothea's somewhat wealthy and particular parents, who had brought up their daughter after their own manner. The aunt and the girl were about to go out, when the girl observed:

"Are you going out, auntie? You've got a hole in your veil."

"Have I?" replied the aunt. "I'm afraid I haven't time to change it now."

"Oh, well, it's not a very big one," replied the girl, "and, after all, I don't suppose anyone will know you're my aunt."—Argonaut.

"Our Beloved Youngest"

The London Times prints on its first page an "In Memoriam" department in which relatives and friends of the dead may publicly register their affection for the departed. It has been a crowded column these last three years, at once touching for the evidence of grief and inspiring for the signs of bravery. Of all the things of which the English have been accused, the strangest is that which says the race lacks sentiment.

Here is a sample advertisement: "In unfading memory of our beloved youngest, Harry Atheling Russell, Lieutenant 2—8th Middlesex, attached R.F.C., who was killed in aerial action, 5th April, aged 24. (Mentioned in dispatches.)

"Children, say not good night, But in your brighter clime, wish us 'good morning.'"

May we, when the long lists of the casualties come over the cables, be as courageous. It is no decadent race that can set down its losses and then let the world know, by line and verse that it purposes not to weep.—Toledo Blade.

The Fourth of July

So you don't know What the 4th of July is all about, eh, Kaiser Billie? Well, yes, it's something like this Bill—Us "idiotic Yanks." For the last 142 years or so, we have made a holiday of this day, because it's a reminder Of the day we figured out That no guy was big enough To run this planet, and Our Country his way, and Make us cat out of his hand with his foot on Our necks. Dye get us? Today we are still at it! Over here, and over there! We usually celebrate today With small fireworks, only This year Bill, we are Doing the real thing in Fireworks, "over there." By setting them off in Your imperial direction, With the same idea, that no Casabo with that "divine Authority" bunk, is going To shuffle this old mud Ball to suit his appetite! And that means you Eatry Bill! And we're gonna celebrate The 4th every day from Row on until we've packed You in molotov balls for Some museum as the last Wild man of this earth! Autocracy is dead! Long live the 4th!

Faith of America

When the sons of our soil By the hands of their toil Declared men are equal and free, When they set that seal Of American weal, AS promise for you and for me: By their word and their sword and their pen, They proclaimed it to God and to men;

Let Truth and Right decide us And if our hearts are void, Our hands are dust, Our swords are rust, Or law and order fail, But if our banners guide us To answer Freedom's call, 'Thee' You and I may fight or die, Ours shall not fail!

As our purpose is pure, So our cause shall endure, When the call of our bugles is heard, For the heroes of our state, Be they lowly or great, Resound to our old, old word, And again and again and again, We proclaim it to God and to men!—EDMUND YANCEY COOKE.

MERCANTILE CLERKS ASSOCIATION DISCUSSES WAGE INCREASE

At a special meeting of the Mercantile Clerks association, held in Runels hall at 6.15 o'clock last night, to hear reports from a committee sent to interview the merchants concerning an increase in wages, as voted at the last meeting, it was announced that the A. G. Pollard Co. has already granted the increase but nothing has, as yet, been done by the other large stores.

A committee consisting of five members, to be known as the organization committee, will continue this work and will report to the association concerning it at the next meeting.

STILL FINDING HIDDEN CLAUSES

The miseries of poor Rumania are piling up. Not only is her sea coast taken away, her rich oil fields, her lands and crops, but now in her peace treaty with Berlin she is finding so many other hidden and ambiguous clauses. These are impressively enumerated by a Rumanian writer to the London bureau of the Christian Science Monitor. To quote:

"Requisitions already made in the occupied Rumanian territory amount to $35,000,000. Further the country has to redeem the 'war banknotes' thrust upon her by the invader and to pay for the damage done to German property in Rumania, as well as the damage caused to neutrals by the German invasion, and, as a climax, the balances and deposits of the National bank of Rumania are to be placed at the disposal of Berlin for five years. The Teutonic spider is generous enough with his enlarged fly.

"But the enemy is bent on destroying, from the outset, the national life of the Rumanian people. Over 400,000 Germans, Austrians, Magyars and Bulgars are forcibly declared Rumanian citizens. All the spies, traitors and Bolos, the first army of von Mackensen, are reinstated and honored in accordance with the German sense of morality. With the help of all these Staatslosen the Germans want to rule the Rumanian helots and to prevent any democratic development. Even the religious life of the country is menaced and the 'propaganda' which some years ago nearly destroyed the Rumanian church is greatly encouraged by the treaty.

"Nothing is left to the Rumanian state save an empty name, but the Rumanian people are conscious that all these sacrifices were made in doing their duty. Occupied by the vilest of soldiers who ever disgraced the most elementary rights of the chivalry of war, with their country dismembered, starved, decimated, plundered, the Rumanian people owe nothing more than an unbroken faith in their noble allies and in the triumph of justice."—Holyoke Transcript.

THE LAST CZAR OF RUSSIA

The report that Nicholas Romanoff, the late czar of Russia, has been put to death by the Bolsheviks is accepted as true. The Romanoffs have not had a bed of roses in their rule over Russia. It is suspected that some of whom record is made that they died natural deaths, had their ends hastened by envious relatives by the administration of poison. Since 1800 there have been six Romanoff czars, three of whom have been done to death by violence. None of the czars has been free from constant apprehension of assassination. During their reigns they have walked in the valley of the shadow of death and have feared that evil. Their chance of escaping death has been less than that of soldiers in the inferno of the battlefields on the western front. Three out of the six have lost their lives by violence within the last 117 years. Paul was assassinated on the night of March 23, 1881, being succeeded by his son, Alexander I., who managed to die in bed after a reign of nearly 35 years. The heir to the throne, his oldest brother, Constantine, who passed the chance up, not being enamored of the prospects surrounding the throne, Nicholas, his younger brother, was otherwise minded, and ruled as czar for 30 years. His end, too, was peaceful. He was succeeded by his eldest son, Alexander II., who successfully dodged bombs, until one buried by an anarchist got him in 1881. Alexander III. then came to the throne and in spite of plots for his taking off, part of this life from natural causes in 1894.

The fate of his successor, Nicholas II., is of recent history. He was a double tragedy. He lost his throne before losing his life. In all human probability Nicholas was the last of the czars of Russia, and the last Romanoff to wear the purple of royalty, ending a dynasty of a family which came to the throne of Russia in the person of Michael Romanoff by election of the nobles in 1613. Great Caesar is dead and turned to clay.—Fitchburg Sentinel.

BENNETT'S WILL

Filed for Probate — Provides for Creation of a Corporation

To Manager N. Y. Herald Co. and Memorial Home for New York Journalists

NEW YORK, July 3.—The will of James Gordon Bennett, owner and publisher of the New York Herald, who died recently in France, was filed for probate. Mrs. Bennett received an annuity of $50,000 in lieu of her dower rights in all his real estate holdings. An annuity of $50,000 goes to his sister, Jeannette Bell.

Home for Newspapermen
A corporation is to be created, to be known as the James Gordon Bennett Memorial Home for New York Journalists, in memory of the deceased father, James Gordon Bennett, who founded the Herald. This corporation will provide and maintain a suitable home for and give pecuniary aid to newspapermen connected with newspapers published in this city. The beneficiaries of this provision are to be nominated and recommended by the proprietors or publishers who employ them.

The New York Herald will be controlled by the James Gordon Bennett Memorial Home for New York Journalists.

"It is my desire and will," the will says, "that such memorial home corporation shall own, and as soon as the due administration of my estate shall permit, receive, and that it shall hold as long as practicable all capital stock of the New York Herald Co. and the New York Herald Co. Societe Anonyme Francaise." (Controlling the European edition of the Herald.)
The corporation is authorized to manage these two corporations and publish the New York and European editions of the Herald and the New York Evening Telegram upon the same principles and conditions and with the same policy and in the same manner so far as practicable, as they were conducted at the time of the testator's death.

"Perpetual Memorial"
The younger Mr. Bennett, in creating this "perpetual memorial," the will declares, carries out a "long cherished intention and purpose."

Until such time as this memorial corporation shall be formed, the capital stock of the Herald corporations is to be controlled by the executors, Rodman W. Wainmaker, James Stillman and Eugene Higgins, who are authorized meanwhile to continue publication of the newspapers "upon the same principles and traditions and with the same policy and in the same manner, so far as practicable, as conducted by Mr. Bennett himself. The executors are to be retained as directors of the memorial corporation, until they are authorized to continue the publication business so as "to maintain the high standard, efficiency, independence and wide influence of the newspapers."

The beneficiaries of the memorial home provisions are New York newspapermen, who shall by reason of old age, infirmity, or bodily infirmity, and through lack of means be unable to care for themselves or need such home or aid.

Owners and publishers are to nominate these beneficiaries and the directors are "to give the preference to any person who shall be or shall have been employed by or associated with" the Bennett newspapers.

Another Will

The memorial corporation is to establish and maintain buildings and grounds for the beneficiaries and to aid through pecuniary contributions or by pensioning.

The will, dated Nov. 11, 1915, discloses the existence of another will under which Mr. Bennett's "real and personal property situated in the republic of France" is disposed of.

In addition to the annuities of $50,000 each to Mr. Bennett's widow and sister, annuities ranging from $30,000 to $500, to other relatives and employees of his yacht Lysistrata, are provided.
Mr. Bennett's property at Newport, E. I., known as "Stone Villa," is bequeathed to Edith Sybil Whitehouse, wife of William Fitzhugh Whitehouse and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Douglas of New York. Mrs. Whitehouse receives also an annuity of $5000. The value of the estate is not indicated in the will.

OPENING OF THE NEW PARSONAGE OF ST. PAUL'S M. E. CHURCH

After a reception which began in the early afternoon, the new parsonage of the St. Paul's M. E. church at 33 Burr street was officially opened last evening. Rev. John L. Cairns, who was recently elected pastor, received many congratulations from more than 175 members of his parish.

It is the first time a number of years that the church has owned its own parsonage and the event was duly celebrated. The present parsonage, which was the recent property of Mrs. Herman Phillips, was taken over in the spring for the use of the church.

The reception was held from 3 to 5 o'clock and from 5 to 10 o'clock and these hours Rev. Mr. Cairns received more than 175 of his parishioners who congratulated him on his new residence. Mr. Barker rendered two piano selections in a pleasing manner and Booth's orchestra played. During the course of the evening refreshments were served. The Ladies' Aid society and the T.A.T.M. club were in charge of the event.

FALSE ALARMS

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning a false alarm was sent in from box 5 at the corner of Smith and Powell streets and a few moments after the men of the department had returned to their respective houses, another false alarm was rung from box 57, at the corner of Chelmsford and Jenness streets.

AMERICAN AIRMEN IN ## THRILLING BATTLE

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, July 2. (By The Associated Press.)—American aviators are receiving congratulations for the efficient protection given the infantry and artillery during the operations Monday night and today west of Chateau-Thierry. The Americans kept the air, especially on the American side of the line, virtually free of enemy airplanes. The French commander in this district has sent official congratulations.

One American pursuit unit encountered a big enemy group late Monday and chased the Germans off, after getting in some good shots. One American machine failed to return.

Today, a damaged German machine was found inside the American lines. North of Chateau-Thierry this morning, nine American machines and nine German airplanes had a thrilling combat for half an hour. At least three of the German planes were driven down, while two of the Americans had not returned tonight.

TWO AMERICAN "ACES" AWARDED WAR MEDALS

PARIS, July 3.—Sergeant Frank L. Bowley, New Bedford, Mass., and First Lieutenant David N. Putnam of Brookline, Mass., American aviators, have been awarded a war medal by the foreign service committee of the Aero Club of America "for valor and distinguished service."

30 NATIONALITIES AT MOUNT VERNON

WASHINGTON, July 2.—American citizens representing 30 nationalities will take part in the Fourth of July exercises at Mount Vernon tomorrow. President Wilson, who will speak, has invited them as a part of the program for having the native-born of the United States join with foreign-born citizens in making Independence day this year the most memorable in history.

The nationalities represented will be: Albanians, Armenians, Assyrians, Belgians, Bulgarians, Chinese, Czech-Slavs, Danes, Dutch, Finns, French-Canadians, Germans, Greeks, Hungarians, Italians, Japanese, Lithuanians, Mexicans, Norwegians, Poles, Portuguese, Russians, Roumanians, Spanish, South Slavs, Swedes, Swiss, Syrians and Venezuelans.

Rev. Paul S. Watt of Boston will represent the Albanians; Missen Sevast of Boston, the Armenians; Elie Vezina of Woonsocket, R. I., the French-Canadians; and Alex Petrukevitch of New Haven, Conn., the Russians.

THREE YEARS

Bowler Charged with Threatening Dr. Spencer

BOSTON, July 2.—John Bowler, of Worcester, a bowler charged with threatening bodily harm to Dr. William C. Spencer, of Brookline, was given a three months' sentence in the house of correction by Judge A. K. Cohen in municipal court today. He appealed and his bond was fixed at $500. Dr. Spencer testified that he had been called on the telephone hundreds of times, that he often got six calls a day and many threatening letters. The police arrested Bowler as he was leaving a telephone booth at the South station.

MAYOR APPOINTS DISTRICT NURSE

Miss Mary Finnegan, 235 Stackpole street, has been appointed a district nurse in the health department by Mayor Thompson and will assume her duties Friday morning. Miss Finnegan is one of two new nurses which His Honor has been empowered to appoint. The other appointee has not yet been named.

Miss Finnegan is a native of Lowell and the daughter of Michael Finnegan, janitor at the Colburn school. She is a graduate of St. John's hospital and has had special training in child welfare work. Her salary will be at the rate of $900 a year.

GREATEST FOURTH IN NATION'S HISTORY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The greatest Independence day in the history of the nation, said Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the United States Emergency Fleet corporation, referring to plans for the launch July 4th of 90, perhaps more, American ships.

"Launching of these ships," he said, "is the significant thing that we shall do on that day to give the world the news that America is up and doing."

"And we say that to the men of the shipyards the word of appreciation should go and will go, for this mighty job."

TO ARREST MANY GERMAN WOMEN

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A number of German women are to be arrested soon and interned for evident evasion of the government's regulations requiring enemy alien women to register with police or postmasters. A few of these have been under suspicion of contributing to enemy propaganda.

CALLS IRISH TO DEFEAT GERMANY

NEW YORK, July 3.—Resolutions condemning "those Irishmen and Irish Americans who have shown themselves to be apostles of the German gospel of barbarism and brutality, but who do not represent the Irish race here or abroad," were adopted at a meeting here last night of the United Irish league.

The resolutions also called on "our Irish and kin across the ocean to rally to the support of every movement having for its object the defeat of Germany by our beloved country and our allies."

Speakers branded as traitors to the United States "any Irish-American who, by his action, would compel the return of even a single British soldier from the western front to stand guard in Ireland."

ESCAPES U-BOAT TO BE

INJURED IN BILLERICA

BOSTON, July 3.—All the thrills for a skipper are not in the submarine zone, according to Capt. Jesse Boyd, 49 years old, of 865 Congress street, Portland, Me., who now lives at the Massachusetts General hospital with a broken right leg.

Considerable mystery surrounds the manner in which Capt. Boyd's injury was caused, and how he woke up to find himself lying in the middle of the Boston & Maine railroad tracks near Billerica.

Capt. Boyd says: "I have been a sea captain for a number of years and for some time past have been sailing ships for the United States government."

"I was due to take out a ship which was to meet a convoy at an Atlantic port on Tuesday, and in order to reach the ship on time, went aboard a train at the North station and turned into a bunk on the last car about 10 o'clock."

"Before I went to sleep, two strange men, both of whom appeared to be foreigners, entered the car and looked at me in a suspicious manner. They walked down the car and I forgot them and went to sleep."

"The next thing I knew, I awoke and found myself lying between the railroad tracks. I raised an outcry and was picked up and brought back to the North station on a train and sent to the hospital."

The police at the Hanover street station have on their official records, an item that about 11 o'clock Monday night, Capt. Boyd was taken from the North station to the hospital, suffering from a broken right leg, which was supposed to have been received by falling or being pushed from a train near Billerica.

Capt. Boyd says he has a sister at the address he gave in Portland and a brother, Dr. James Boyd, at Longmeadow, Mass.

PROVIDES FOR HOME FOR AGED WOMEN WHO NEITHER SMOKE NOR DRINK

SALEM, July 3.—By the will of Miss Catherine Johnson, North Andover, filed for probate here today, her home with $20,000 for its maintenance, is to be used as a home for aged women. The will provides that no woman under 55 who smokes or drinks shall be admitted.

CALL FOR 25,000 STUDENT NURSES

WASHINGTON, July 3.—With the nation's reserve of trained nurses depleted through the calling of thousands for service in military and naval hospitals both abroad and in the United States, it has become necessary to call immediately for 25,000 student nurses for training in American hospitals.

A call for women between the ages of 19 and 35 today was issued jointly by Surgeon General W. C. Gorgas, of the United States army; Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the U. S. Public health service; H. E. Davidson, chairman, War Council; American Red Cross; Dr. Franklin A. Martin, chairman, general medical board, council of national defense; and Anna Howard Shaw, chairwoman, women's committee council of national defense.

GOVERNMENT RELINQUISHES CONTROL OF 2000 SHORT LINE RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—More than 2000 short line railroad, electric feeders and plant utility lines, have been relinquished by the railroad administration, according to estimates made today, on the basis of orders issued during the past week. There remained in the hands of the railroad administration control of approximately 300 roads classed as short line railroads, but the bulk of such enterprises which the national system are now back in the hands of their former independent management.

TEUTON WAR PRISONERS FIGHTING ON THE SIDE OF BOLSHIEVIKI

AMSTERDAM, July 3.—Admission that Austro-Hungarian and German war prisoners are fighting on the side of the Bolshievi against Czech-Slovaks in Russia, is made by the Koelnsche Zeitung. The prisoners, it says, were forced by hunger and privation to enter the military service of the Bolshievi against the counter revolutionary forces.

LOOKS BAD FOR SOME LAWRENCE DEALER

Edward Fisher and Warren P. Riordan of the local food administration, are being kept on the jump looking after violators of the government food regulations. This morning, they visited a house on Clark road where a man had secured two barrels of white flour from a dealer in Lawrence. It is claimed that was charged an exorbitant price for the flour, that it was not adulterated with some other substance, as the law provides, and that it was sold in excess quantity. These make three distinct complaints against the Lawrence dealer, and no doubt the case will be pushed.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming;
Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
Oh, say, does that star spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes;
What is that which the breeze o'er the towering steep
As it fitfully blows half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines in the stream—
'Tis the star spangled banner, oh long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
A home and a country should leave us no more?
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution.
No refuge could save the hireling and slave
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave;
And the star spangled banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their loved homes and the war's desolation;
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n rescued land
Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a Nation!
Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust";
And the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

The Stock Markets

NEW YORK, July 3.—Stocks opened with a general demonstration of strength today. Coppers and kindred metals led the broad advance with gains of one to two points on the higher price granted by the war board. United States Steel's first transaction embraced 5000 shares at an extreme rise of 1 1/8. Liberty bonds were steady.

Selling for profits materially reduced early gains, United States Steel reacting a large fraction, while the setback in other active issues extended to a point. Trading became dull on the decline, but quickened again toward mid-day on a recurrent demand for coppers and tobaccos, the latter averaging two point gains. Rails were firm on light inquiry. Liberty 3 1/2's sold at 95.58 to 95.60, first 4's at 94.10 to 94.12, second 4's at 94.08 to 94.10, and 4 1/4's at 95.30 to 95.40.

Inactive specialties were the only features of the mid-session. International Paper, American Writing Paper preferred, Wilson Packing and Worthington Pump rose one to two points, while the usual leaders remained stationary. Steels and coppers reacted later, while motors and leathers improved. The closing was irregular. Liberty 3 1/2's closed at 95.58 to 95.60, first 4's at 94.04 to 94.06, second 4's at 94.06 to 94.10, and 4 1/4's at 95.24 to 95.48.

UNUSUAL CEREMONIES AT CAMP DEVENS—MEN HELD WITHOUT BEING TAKEN INTO ARMY

CAMP DEVENS, July 3.—Singular ceremonies were staged here yesterday afternoon to bring into the army legally 115 men who were picked up in Lawrence factories and street corners last week and sent here as draft evaders, but who had never been inducted into service formally, it turned out.

The Y.M.C.A. auditorium, which served last week as a naturalization court and one night as a barracks, was the setting yesterday for the strangest combination of official bodies yet to sit at this military post.

On the platform was Judge J. M. Maloney presiding as United States commissioner. Seated near him was Fred Weyand of the department of justice, here to supervise straightening out of the tangle.

Around tables below was the Ayer local selection board.

In turn the 115 were brought before the commissioner to plead to the charge of not having filed questionnaires. "Four cases are continued until July 5," Judge Maloney would announce to each, and thereupon the "evaders" would be led to the Ayer draft board table. Promptly the board inducted each man into the military service for failure to show proof that questionnaire had been filed.

Then the draft board would turn each man in turn over to the army officers, 1st Lieut. J. R. Peniston of the 45th company, who had 51 from Lawrence, and Capt. James J. Maguire of the 47th, who had 41 from that city. What usually takes days or weeks for draftees and selection boards, took only a matter of minutes for these men rounded up in Lawrence.

July 5 will never come for them, so far as another hearing of their cases in civil courts is concerned. They are in the army now, because they hadn't filled questionnaires, and they, as soldiers, no longer have recourse to civil action.

The involved and somewhat summary procedure in their cases was made necessary by an apparent misunderstanding of the roundup orders in Lawrence. And it has caused much trouble to draft officials and officers here.

The Lawrence lot were bundled off to Ayer in trucks, evidently with no hearing or investigation whatever of their cases by the local boards. Not having been inducted into service by the boards there, the officers there had no claim on the men; they weren't in the army, although in camp.

Several Cripples Among "Evaders"

The officers could simply hold the men until the formality of induction was carried through. But some of them the officers had no desire to induct. There were men obviously over 31 and under 31. These were discharged. There was one with one eye; one with one foot missing; one with an artificial piece of bone in his leg so that he walked exactly like a man with a wooden leg; one had several fingers missing.

Commissioner Maloney could not discharge them because they could not prove questionnaires filed, but they were held for an Aug. 30 hearing, to give them time to file a questionnaire and be exempted by their local board. They shouldn't be left here to clog up the rush work of fitting an army for France, the commissioner decided.

A number of men had conclusive proof that they had been placed in Classes 4 and 5. In Greater Boston 1000 of these so-called slackers were rounded up, but the local boards examined the men with some care before sending them to camp, and as a result only about 250 of the 1000 ever reached here. The others proved the registration of statements regarding the Boston evaders had a tale to tell when he arrived here of being robbed of $24.70 by one of the men set to guard over them in Boston.

In the 6th company, Depot Brigade, there was another sort of tangle. Two brothers came in last week with the Dorchester draftees, Joseph E. and W. D. Cataldo of Toplik street. It seems that W. D. asked to be inducted when he learned that his brother was due on that call, so both came along.

Then the doctors here rejected one of the brothers for flat feet, leaving the other in; and the one left behind was the one who had been voluntarily inducted, according to the story that first went to headquarters. Later investigation proved it was the other way around, the one who really had to come is the one still here.

Ten Years' Term for Cote

Ten years at hard labor was a general court-martial sentence announced today, imposed on Private Horace F. Cote of Orange, who volunteered last fall as a member of the 33d Engineers, who was found guilty of being absent without leave from April 6 until May 3, when he was arrested at Birmingham, N. Y., and also of stealing motorcycle from Joseph Berube in Claremont, N. H., while he was away.

The main Knights of Columbus building is to be greatly enlarged, by the addition of a wide porch and a number of new rooms. It was announced today by Gen. Sec. Arthur Cooper, former Boston sporting writer and Red Sox scout, who is in charge of the K. of C. recreational work here.

Judge Marcus Morton of the Massachusetts superior court of Newton, whose son, Capt. Marcus Morton, Jr., is adjutant of the 893d artillery, reported at camp yesterday as a volunteer Red Cross worker, to assist through the summer R. M. Cushman, associate field director, in charge of home service.

Maj. Gen. Hodges has a new chauffeur, Sergt. Carroll, former chauffeur for a Holyoke bank president. Sergt. Carroll has a mother living "two miles outside of Dublin," and he is praying that the 76th Division will camp in fair Ireland some day.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON MADE CAPTAIN

Thomas Livingston, eldest son of Andrew Livingston, superintendent of steamfitting for the Hobson & Lawler Co. of this city, has been commissioned a captain in France, where he has been serving since last fall with the 101st Supply Train. Capt. Livingston has been in the national service for 25 years. He was first lieutenant of Co. G of the old 6th Regiment in the Spanish-American war. He was awarded a captaincy upon his return, but in a short while he severed his connections with the military game temporarily to accept an executive position with the Boston Elevated road. In a few months he re-enlisted in the 8th Massachusetts Regiment, stationed at Everett. He served at the Mexican border with this unit and when the forces of the state were mobilized for overseas duty, more than a year ago, he went into camp at Lynnfield. Later, he was transferred to Co. C of the 101st Supply Train, and with this unit sailed to France.

HOPE FOR THIS COUNTRY

To the war mothers of America, before all others who celebrate the day, this Fourth of July, 1918, carries the deepest significance.

As a mother grows old, her hope rests in her sons. As she grows wise, she learns that the hope of her country rests also in her sons—and the hope of liberty—and the hope of democracy.

And so the war mothers sacrifice their personal claims to the general good. But only the mother heart knows what the struggle is. For years, when these war mothers were just plain everyday home mothers, they brought their boys from childhood to manhood by years of hard work and self-denial, with the faith that a precious reward awaited them at the end of their days. Their sons would be their towers of strength in the hour of their weakness.

Then, almost overnight, they were changed from simple happy "peace" mothers to the "War Mothers of America." Their country had taken their sons.

"Freedom for all. Forever" means that the war mothers have still more work to do. What it is is put briefly by D. T. Curtin, a writer who has seen the war mothers in eleven campaigns in seven countries:

"The growing American army and participation in the battle in France means that our mothers will have an agony of staying at home and waiting. It is the hardest thing to bear. The only relief that is truly lasting is to find work of a kind that will back up the men at the front. The worst thing any woman can do now is to sit down and think."

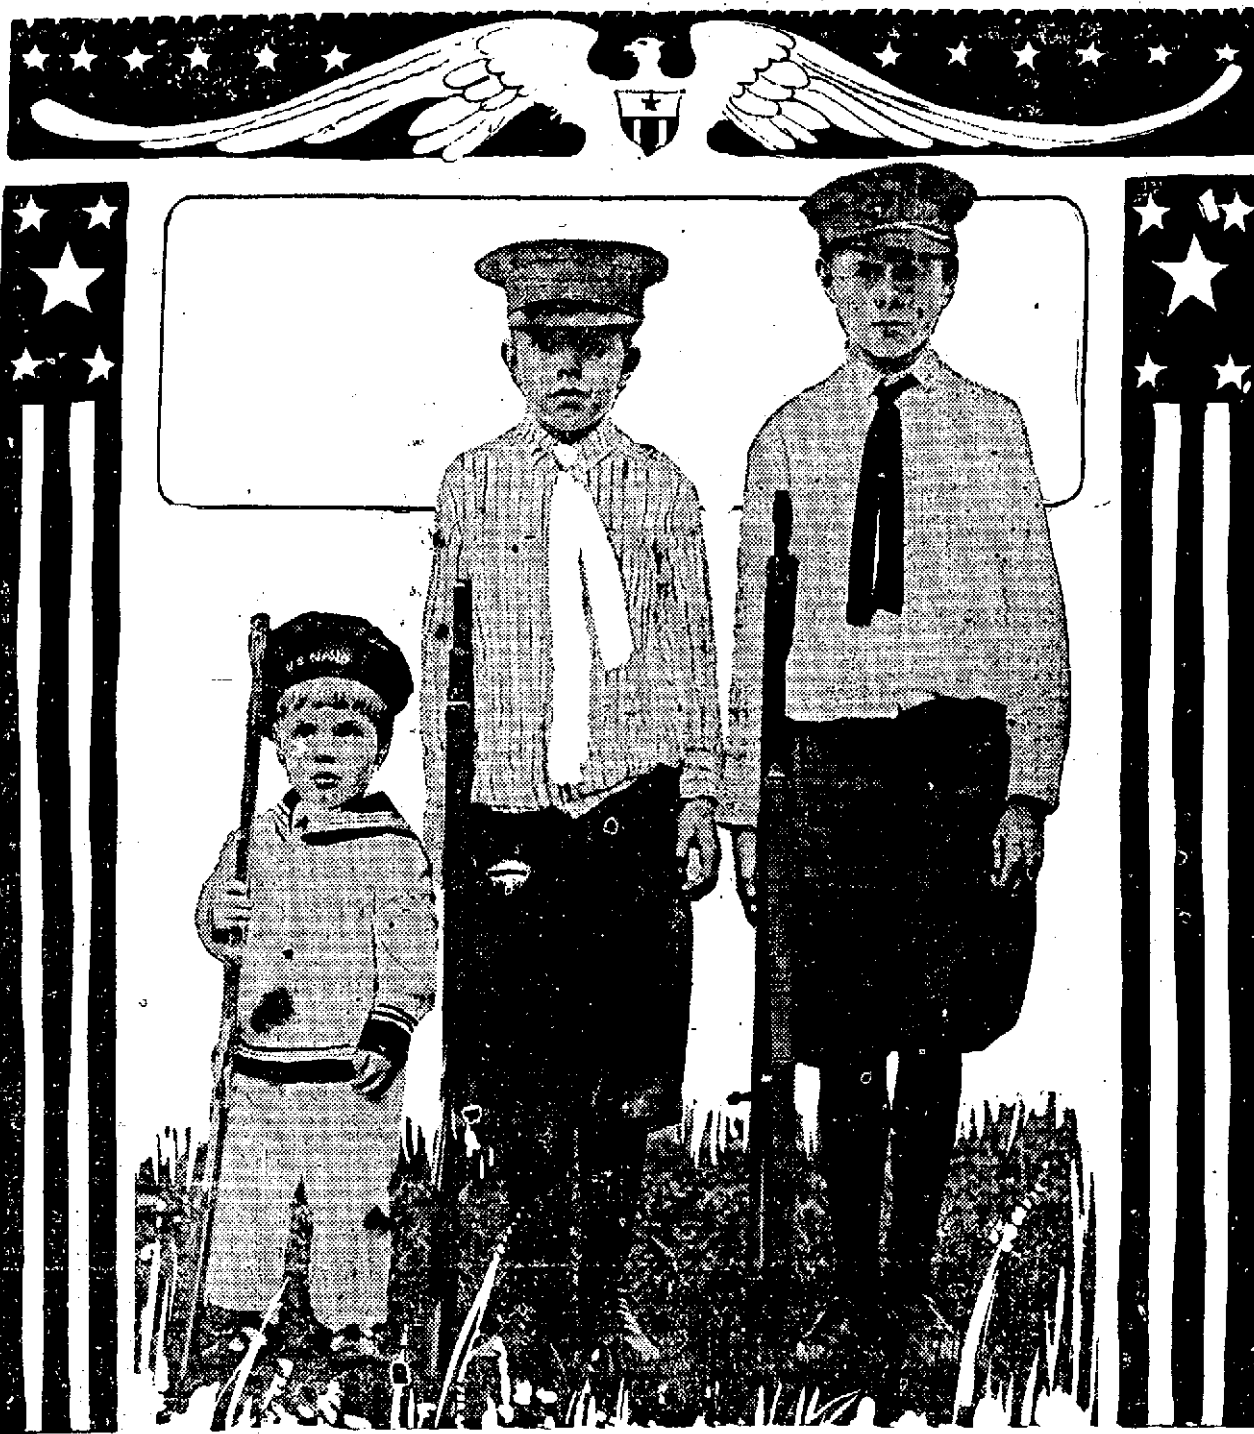

"American mothers have a logical demand to make—that all leaders of their side politics to prepare and support an army big enough for victory within the shortest possible time."

The supreme service of the war mother is to keep her hand from staying each younger son as he comes of age, and to give her voice to a great propaganda for bigger armies, to urge unmarried sons more than 21 years old to back up the boys already overseas.

This means more war mothers and more war mothers to join those already mobilizing in many cities.

And at last it means the woman's dream come true—Free mothers in a land where there shall be no more war.

WINONA WILCOX.

A LETTER TO BILL THE BRUTAL, HEAD OF THE HUNS

Kaiser, you're going to be licked.

You've got that coming to you, all right, and you know it.

You may be fooling the German people into believing that you won't get this licking, but you will!

Take our word for that.

We are American boys, too young to fight you, but not too young to get ready to fight you.

We have fathers and brothers and uncles "over there" in France, and they are fighting you.

More of our fathers and brothers and uncles are training here at home to go "over there" to fight you.

And still more of them will train and go "over there."

They will keep on training and going "over there" just as long as there are any left to go.

There is only one thing that can stop this endless stream of fighting men going over to give you your licking.

That thing is your defeat, Kaiser.

We can lick you, all right, and lick you good and proper.

If our fathers and brothers and uncles can't lick you, we will be ready to take our turn at it.

Just as our fathers are now fighting you, so will we fight you, Kaiser, and we will be better fighters than our dads are, because we have already started to train.

We are being raised to be soldiers, Kaiser, so that if you are not licked before we grow up we will jump into the war with both feet and fists. Only a terrible and thorough licking for you now will save you from getting it later on, you or your son or your grandson, following in your footsteps along your chosen path of greed, inhumanity and brutality.

And, Kaiser, let us tell you this:

If our fathers can't lick you, and we can't lick you when we grow up, then we will train our sons to be soldiers, from the very day they step from their cradles, and we will charge them with the duty, the duty we place above all others—that of licking you.

We will tell our boys that they must hold no other ambition nearer or dearer than that which now inspires our fathers, and which they will bequeath to us.

O, no! Kaiser, you're not fighting that "contemptible little American army" which you pretended to ridicule a year or so ago. You are going to fight every able-bodied American man from now until the last day this earth exists, unless you are licked sooner.

You are not fighting the Americans of today alone!

You are going to fight the Americans of tomorrow, of all the generations to come, unless you are defeated, and power to disturb the world's peace is taken from you and your successors.

That's our Fourth of July spirit.

That's our every day spirit.

That's our every hour spirit.

And it will stay with us until you are licked so badly that you nor your son nor your grandson nor any other Kaiser will ever dare to hurl the whole world into the hell of war to satisfy his own cruel and selfish ambitions.

And, Kaiser, while we are training and getting ready to take our fathers' places in the line against you, if you can fight that long, we are going to do everything and anything we can to help our dads fight you now.

We will sell Thrift Stamps and Liberty Bonds, and we will save our money to buy both. We will work to earn more money to spend for guns to aim at you. We will help grow food, and we will help save food. And we will do what else our president asks us to do to help our fathers and uncles and brothers fight you.

Now, we're through talking to you, Kaiser. We just want to pound into your brutal brain this:

Our fathers will lick you!

If they don't lick you we will!

And if we die before we get the job done our sons will lick you!

You've got a licking coming, Kaiser!

Don't you forget that!

BOYS OF AMERICA.

WORK OR FIGHT

Brighton Draft Board to Determine Status of the Baseball Players

Chairman Summons 14 Members of the Boston National League Team

BOSTON, July 3.—The issue of whether professional baseball players are productive workers or good fighting material, under the "work or fight" rules, will be fought out right here in Boston. At least, the initiative in determining the status of the ball players of the Boston National League Baseball club has been undertaken by local board 25 of Brighton, in which district Braves field and the headquarters of the club are located.

Chairman Fred E. Dowling of board 25 last evening issued the following statement:

"Notices were sent out by our board tonight to members of the Boston National League club requesting them to appear before our local board next Friday evening, July 5, at 8 o'clock. Since the notices were issued we have learned that the Boston team leaves Boston on Thursday. We do not intend to unnecessarily interfere with the sport of baseball nor with the men.

"Under the law which is imposed upon us as a local board we are required to give the men the hearing, and if Friday is not convenient another time will be set. We intend to be agreeable in the matter, but we must carry out the requirements of the law."

Total of 14 Men Affected

The 14 players who must appear before the board, probably upon the return of the club from the second western trip, are: Henry, Wilson and Truesdell, catchers; Ragan, Hearne, Uppham, Rudolph, Neff and Fillingim, pitchers; "Red" Smith, Jimmy Smith and Johnny Rawlings, infielders; and Al Wickland and Roy Massey, outfielders. Walter Rehg, Ray Powell and Joe Kelly, outfielders, will report for duty with the Naval Reserve at Newport Friday and consequently will not be affected by the inquiry of the Brighton board, and Capt. Herzog, first baseman, Ed Konetchy and Pitcher Tom Hughes are beyond the military age.

The board is undertaking the investigation without any intention of disrupting the game and entirely without prejudice.

Without question, according to the members of the board, the Brighton board is acting within its authority in undertaking the inquiry. It matters not where registrants have been placed by their home boards, they can be summoned for interrogation under the "work or fight" rules by board 25 regardless of any classification they might hold.

Should the Brighton board decide that the members of the Braves are engaged in a non-productive occupation an appeal may be taken to the district board, of which Judge Cohen is chairman. Should that board affirm the finding of the local board the matter may be squared up to President Gen. Crowder himself, who all along has said that he would not discuss the "work or fight" rule as they might apply to ball players until a specific case had come to him from a local board.

George H. McDermott of Allston, the government appeal agent for this district, will assist the board in making the inquiry.

Women in Many Occupations

That the "work or fight" rule has affected all branches of industry and occupation in Boston is becoming more noticeable each day. Women are succeeding men in various occupations. The government's edict that waiting on tables, operating elevators, selling goods behind the counter and similar occupations are non-essentials, has released hundreds of men for war work, and already women are running elevators in the most conservative hotels and office buildings. Many of the largest clubs of the city are employing women waiters for the first time, and in some instances the members of the fair sex are running club elevators as well.

Girls are running elevators at the Lenox and Copple Plaza hotels, and women waitresses have supplanted the men at the Touraine. The Harvard club and B.A.A. have women waitresses, and the City club has adopted a self-service system in its grill room. At the Hotel Brunswick men more than 50 years old are running the elevators.

FIGHT OR STUDY

Tech. Students who Fail to Pass Must Go to War

BOSTON, July 3.—Students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology during the next college year who fail to meet the scholastic requirements will be inducted into the military service. The plan, urged by prominent alumni and endorsed by the war department was made known today by the college authorities. In effect, the students must either "fight or study." It is understood that the ruling will not apply to students under 21 years of age.

HORSE RACES TOMORROW AT GOLDEN COVE

The Lowell Driving club has planned some good racing for tomorrow afternoon at Golden Cove park for purses amounting to $800. The card is more pretentious than any race event the club has put on since its beginning and if perchance the weather should prove unfavorable the races will take place on Saturday afternoon.

The active members of the club, and there are quite a number of live wires connected with it, have been planning the big event for weeks. The track is in the pink of condition and the majority of horses to appear in the races are star performers.

There have always been a few good horses in Lowell and the number has been added to considerably of late. Greater interest is being manifested in matters having to do with the club and just for that many improvements are noted. A club house with a broad piazza is being fitted up at the park and this will add greatly to the convenience and enjoyment of members. The track, as has been heretofore stated, is in fine shape and many horses are being trained to do with the club and just for that many improvements are noted. It might not be out of place to state in connection with the club and its activities that Lowell has some promising colts coming along. So promising, in fact, that they are classed with the very best turf prospects in this section of the country. And mention of the colts introduces one of the fastest and greatest brood mares this country has ever seen. Princess Monette, 2:10 1/2, and she is in Lowell, too. Princess Monette is the dam of six splendid colts and four of these are in Lowell. The oldest, a pacer, with speed to burn, is owned by Thomas F. Hoban. The best horsemen in the country predict a brilliant future for this handsome and clever colt. Next comes a handsome trotter owned by James Dronney and a yearling and filly owned by P. A. Lawton. The dam and colts constitute the "breediest" looking horse family that Lowell has entertained for many moons.

PERSHING DAY

July Fourth is Pershing Day Back in Jack's Old Home Town

Jack is From Missouri and the Germans Have Got to Show Him

(By Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

LACLEDE, Mo., July 2.—Tomorrow is Pershing day in this town. Elsewhere in America it is only Independence Day. This Fourth is both Independence Day and Pershing Day to the folks of General John Joseph Pershing's home town.

Laclede's Main street is all alight with flags, bunting and pictures of the town's greatest citizen. So are all the dwelling houses. Many prominent men and women will be here to celebrate Pershing Day with the people of Laclede and Lynn-co., and the general has sent some of his veterans back from "over there" to lend a touch of war to the ceremonies.

Few folks here will trust themselves to go soundly to sleep tonight, so anxious are they to be up with the sun tomorrow so they won't miss a chance to add their cheers to John's celebration.

For instance, there is "Charley" Spurgeon, years ago Jack Pershing's boyhood pal, closer together than two peas in a pod. It's worth coming all the way to Laclede for the occasion.

There are four numbers on the program, each one promising to prove very interesting. In the main event, Bushy Graham and Johnny Donovan will appear. They are scheduled to entertain for 12 rounds. In the next contest, of importance, Tony Vatan and Al Gerard will meet. Two six "rounders" will be pulled off, with Young Welsh and Jack Burke in one and Geo. Brooks and Johnny Boyle in the other. This is a very attractive lineup for the opening night, and some more formidable ones later. It is a strict rule that none but members will be admitted, and this edict will be enforced to the letter. Those desiring to join must file an application and have it acted upon before the night of the meeting. The holiday program will start at 3:15 o'clock.

SHORT SHIP CIRCUIT

RACES AT WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Conn., July 3.—Because Bobby C. acted badly in the third race yesterday afternoon, Billy Fleming just escaped a complete cleanup of first places on the opening program here of the second meeting of the Bay State Short Ship Circuit, held over the Sage Park track.

Fleming's horses were in rare form for speed, the Windsor driver winning the 2:16 pace with Lord Lochabar in straight heats, the 2:23 trot with Rosa Watts in three straight heats and getting fourth money in the 2:12 trot with Bobby C.

All three races drew good fields, particularly the 2:16 pacing class, which had 14 starters. Lord Lochabar had the pole and in every heat was never in serious danger, holding the lead throughout.

Seven horses took the word in the 2:23 trot and again Fleming's charge was the class. Rosa Watts slipped in behind Miss Colorado, who had the pole, and stayed there until the bay mare broke at the three-quarters post, the chestnut mare forging to the front.

The only split heat race was the 2:12 trot, Bobby C. being well in front at the half when he went to a break as Director Todd challenged him, and Bruce drove the gelding home first.

Bruce laid back in the second heat and Mint Mark was an easy winner, but in the next two all efforts on the part of Director Todd to overtake Mint Mark were useless.

Ed Gillies, driving, Miss Rice in the second heat of the 2:16 pace, came into collision with the horse in front of him as it went to a break. His sulky was overturned and broken, but neither the horse nor the driver was injured. The summary:

Have the Huns got General Pershing scared? Away with your foolish questions. Above are four pictures of the general, smiling to beat the band every time. But those laugh-filled eyes can look serious (Berlin papers copy this), as shown by a close-up picture of the general's eyes taken when he is looking eastward—On to Berlin!

Laclede boys stopped worshipping the way to Laclede just to hear him tell how he and "Towhead" (they called Jack that then) Pershing raided orchards and "chawed beef" at the old swimmin' hole.

And there's Aunt Susan Hewitt, that kindly soul who developed in Jack Pershing a fondness of apple pie which Indian, Filipino, Mexican and German wars haven't been able to get out of him.

The funny thing about Laclede is that none of "Towhead" Pershing's boy pals ever thought he'd make a soldier. He never wanted a wooden sword and he never led a boy regiment back into the woods to hunt for imaginary Indians. Even when Jack went to West Point they thought he'd come back a lawyer. Young Pershing himself thought so. It was only when he returned, a seasoned military fighter, that they began figuring on him as the village military hero.

Then he returned from the Philippines a brigadier general, and little of food on Jack Pershing's prophecy.
